'BOWS' PERSONAL WITH MIKE

The world's best-known bow tie wearer, Lester B. Pearson, stayed loyal to his symbol during his Victoria visit. But he laughingly denied at a news conference that the bow tie was being "used" as part of his campaign strategy. The large number of red bows worn at his Vancouver meeting "was just a spontaneous affection for the bow tie," he declared.

France Given Warning On Use of U.S. Arms

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has given France a blunt warning against using any more planes or weapons supplied under the military aid program on Tunisian targets. At the same time Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D., Ark.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called for the withdrawal of the planes from France "if they can be."

The use of American-made planes in a bloody Feb. 8 attack on the Tunisian border town of Sakiet-Sidi-Youssef is expected to be brought up by the committee in hearings slated to start next month.

This government, informants said, has informed the French it does not agree with the Paris argument that American-built planes, used in the raid, fell under terms of the Jan. 27, 1956, American-French arms aid agreement.

Under the agreement, France promised to devote American arms aid to no other purpose than NATO defence—unless some other agreement was reached in advance.

ALGERIA OPENS NEW OFFENSIVE

ALGIERS (AP)—The French announced today that the Algerian rebels have launched a major new offensive. The French admitted 69 of their men killed, 79 wounded and 11 missing in four days of fighting—more than they have lost all winter.

Rebel losses were put at about 157 dead, a ratio far below the usual French claim.

French Stand Pat on Tunisia

PARIS (AP)—A sweeping attack by Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on American policy in the Arab world was seen today as additional evidence that France will not be pushed into any compromise with Tunisia.

Pineau said the U.S. government has erred in 1, its sponsorship of the Baghdad Pact; 2, halting the British-French invasion of the Suez; 3, proposing the Eisenhower plan of aid to Middle East countries to combat Communist aggression; and 4, its North African policy—particularly the token arms shipment Britain and the U.S. sent to Tunisia last November.

Documents Altered Court Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—A former C. D. Schultz Company accountant testified today that there were numerous "alterations or obliterations" in one record book of the company put to him for identification in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy preliminary hearing.

George H. Davenport replied in the affirmative eight times when asked if he saw any alterations or obliterations on certain pages of a Schultz Company record book concerning payment of monies to the Schultz by the Tahsis Lumber firm.

The entries concerned payments of $2,000 a month made to the Schultz company as a retainer fee by Tahsis.

This is the document, part of the Crown's evidence in the case involving former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers and others, which prosecutor Stewart McMorran Tuesday said apparently had been tampered with. At McMorran's request, the ledger was put through a scientific process in an attempt to "raise" figures he said had been erased with ink eraser.

Mr. Sommers, who resigned his portfolio in 1956, is charged with accepting some $15,000 in bribes in connection with issuance of forest management licences. Charged with him in the alleged conspiracy are C. D. Schultz, H. W. Gray, John Gray, the C. D. Schultz Company Limited, Evergreen Lumber Sales Limited, Pacific Coast Services Limited and B.C. Forest Products Limited.

Davenport, who was the Schultz Company accountant between March, 1953, and 1955, now is secretary-treasurer of Bralorne Mines.

IDENTITIES NOTE

Generally he was not asked to explain the import of many ledgers, cheques and vouchers which form evidence in the Crown's case. But in one instance, he identified a note sent to him by Mr. Schultz as instructions to send $300 to W. D. Sampson through the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Dawson Creek, B.C., in 1954.

In another instance, identifying a 1954 cheque for $10,000, sent by the Schultz Company to Pacific Coast Services, Davenport testified he had been instructed by Mr. Schultz to dispatch it.

He said Schultz had a 22-month contract for payment by the Tahsis Company of retainer fees of $2,000 a month in connection with engineering and other work.

He then was asked to identify successive entries of this $2,000 monthly payment and say whether he could see any obliterations or alterations in them.

He replied that he could or "there are," but was not asked to explain what had been obliterated or altered.

2 in Hospital

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—R. Lorne McCuish, an insurance adjuster, was shot in the stomach as he sat at his desk in the business district of this central B.C. city today. He was taken to hospital for surgery.

Five minutes later an unidentified man, believed by police to have been McCuish's assailant, shot himself in the head on the street. His condition is critical.

Rebels Stage Daring Raid On Cuba Bank

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Cuban rebels made a daring raid on the National Bank of Cuba in the heart of Havana today, tied up the bank's employees and set fire to thousands of cheques. They made no effort to take the bank's cash.

Nine men were reported killed today in mysterious shootings, bombings and sabotage incidents in Oriente province where the rebel leader, Fidel Castro, has been conducting guerrilla war against the regime of President Fulgencio Batista for more than a year.

Two suspected rebels were shot dead after hurling a grenade at an army patrol in Santiago de Cuba.

French Stand Pat on Tunisia

PARIS (AP)—A sweeping attack by Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on American policy in the Arab world was seen today as additional evidence that France will not be pushed into any compromise with Tunisia.

Pineau said the U.S. government has erred in 1, its sponsorship of the Baghdad Pact; 2, halting the British-French invasion of the Suez; 3, proposing the Eisenhower plan of aid to Middle East countries to combat Communist aggression; and 4, its North African policy—particularly the token arms shipment Britain and the U.S. sent to Tunisia last November.

A-ARMS ONLY DEFENCE AGAINST RUSSIA—SANDYS

LONDON (Reuters)—Defence Minister Duncan Sandys said today the West at present has "no alternative" but to use nuclear weapons against any major Soviet aggression with conventional arms.

"It is the accepted and well-established strategy of NATO and it is by this method that peace has been preserved during the last decade," Sandys said.

Storms Wreak Havoc in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—Shivering Britons floundered through waist-high drifts today as one of the worst winter storms in 40 years spread havoc throughout the country.

Scores of towns and villages were isolated by snowdrifts up to 15 feet deep as the storm continued into its third day.

Some communities were reported running short of food as snow-clearing equipment battles to reach them through the drift-clogged roads.

Motoring organizations reported "chaos everywhere" with more than 100 main roads blocked and thousands of cars abandoned. Trains were hopelessly behind schedule, some arriving as much as 11 hours late in London on runs from Scotland.

Hundreds of children slept in their schools when their buses were unable to get through to take them home.

Telephone and power lines were wrenched down and a 92-year-old woman was killed near Dover when wind sent the chimney of her home crashing down through the roof.

Gales whipped the English Channel today and storms off England's southeast coast were described as the worst in memory.

Pounding seas blasted huge holes in concrete sea walls.

At Le Havre, France, ships were waiting off port unable to dock until storms subsided.

The freighter American Hunter, 8,433 tons, ran aground in the Scheldt Estuary Tuesday night in gales and heavy snowstorms.

Tax Cut Plan 'Scientific'—Sinclair

The man who might become finance minister of Canada if the Liberals are elected to power made it clear to Victorians Tuesday night that the $400 million in tax cuts proposed by the party are in no sense an effort to outbid the Tories in attractions to the voters.

James Sinclair, of Coast-Capilano riding, former minister of fisheries who has become the chief opposition financial critic, said at the Royal Theatre meeting, the reductions are proposed as part of scientific cyclical budgeting to restore the country to normal business levels and employment.

He pointed out that through the postwar boom years the Liberal government had repeatedly resisted popular demands that it cut taxes. It had deliberately piled up large surpluses when money was free and easy and used them to cut the debt by some $2.5 billions.

This was done for the very purpose to build up government credit so that when times went slack because of world conditions the country could go into "deficit financing" in order to restore the economic balance.

This time, he said, has now come. The treasury, as nurtured by the Liberals' long range policy, is ready for it.

This long range policy, he said, had been adopted immediately after the war because the government had made up its mind, as had so many people, to continue on Page 6

Sudbury Races to Aid Of Stricken Freighter

Victoria's deep-sea salvage tugboat Ss. Sudbury has been called on for another long towing job in the stormy winter Pacific.

She has been summoned to the aid of the Greek freighter Andros Legend, which lost her propeller a week ago and since then has been drifting helplessly nearly 2,000 miles due west of Cape Flattery.

The Island Tug and Barge towboat was called on Tuesday when a Seattle-based ocean tug, the Neptune, gave up an attempt to reach the freighter.

The U.S. tug left a week ago under orders of the freighter's owners, but heavy seas, reported to have smashed her wheelhouse, forced her to turn back.

It was then the Victoria company was asked to send the Sudbury, which at the time was nearing the end of a 400-mile job with the Liberian freighter, Lomaland, under tow.

At the time the Sudbury was near Estevan, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, Island Tug and Barge dispatched the slightly-smaller tug Island Sovereign to take over the Lomaland tow, releasing the Sudbury for the longer job.

The Sudbury is the biggest salvage ship on the West Coast. It is expected it will take her a week to reach the Andros Legend, and at least two weeks more to bring her to safe waters.

Master of the Sudbury is Capt. Harley Blagborne, who was in charge of the long tow in 1955, when the salvage tug brought the freighter Makedonia to Vancouver from a point 700 miles from Japan.

STRAIGHTFORWARD APPROACH Pearson Qualities Shine Best During Question-Answer Period

The qualities of Liberal leader Lester Pearson shine brightest during the question-and-answer periods of his campaign meetings.

Mr. Pearson made a profound impression on two Vancouver Island audiences Tuesday with his straightforward approach to questions.

With complete ease and naturalness, he met each question head-on, with no attempt at side-stepping. If he couldn't answer, he said so frankly.

At the Royal Theatre rally in the evening, Mr. Pearson went so far as to repeat two questions designed to embarrass his party

Pearson Pledges Major Study on U.K. Free Trade

Lester B. "Mike" Pearson, the man who has set out to rebuild the fortunes of the national Liberal Party after its defeat last June, got a warm welcome from an overflow audience at Royal Victoria Theatre Tuesday night as he made one of his major speeches of the election campaign.

The new leader stepped from the role of Canada's great international statesman, in which Victorians saw him last May, to the down-to-earth campaigner dealing with domestic as well as foreign issues.

Mr. Pearson and his former cabinet colleague, James Sinclair, effectively covered a half dozen of the major campaign issues in two 40-minute speeches.

But it was in a question period afterward that Mr. Pearson shone most, demonstrating his diplomatic technique in handling queries designed to embarrass him.

There was no heckling during the main speeches as the audience which jammed the 1,500 theatre seats seemed content to watch the new leader in action.

Four Main Points Featured

Mr. Pearson made four main points:

1. Canada should look closely at Britain's offer of a free-trade area with Canada—an offer summarily brushed aside by the Tories—and should even carry it further to consider a free-trading unit with all NATO countries.
2. The United States cannot expect defence co-ordination or integration with Canada unless it is also prepared for economic and trade co-ordination with Canada at the same time.
3. Pledged that if he is elected he will insist on a proper defence agreement with the United States, covering the joint air defence command agreed to by the Tories without any reference to Parliament.
4. The question of peace is in no sense a partisan issue and should not be treated as such in the election campaign.

Mr. Pearson appeared fresh and relaxed after an arduous day in which he caught an 8 a.m. ferry from Vancouver, made a noon-hour speech in Nanaimo, held two press conferences and made a stopover in Duncan.

He caught the midnight boat after the meeting and was en route to Edmonton by air today on the second lap of his western campaign tour.

At the Nanaimo meeting, attended by close to 300 persons, the Liberal leader said the time is now "ripe" to start developing a free-trade area within NATO.

He expressed fear the alliance may break up if trade barriers are not withdrawn and the member countries show more economic co-operation.

At Victoria, Mr. Pearson told his attentive audience that NATO free-trade suggestion might be considered "visionary," but said now is the time for bold thinking.

'Deplorable Choice' Possible

He referred to the growing free-trade movement in Europe and said Canada by not acting now might be faced with a "deplorable choice" between European or U.S. trade.

"No country has more at stake in this particular development than Canada," he said.

There must be strong government initiative in this field.

Canada depends on foreign trade for its prosperity more than any other country in the world, Mr. Pearson said, and no part of Canada is more vitally concerned than B.C.

The objective in correcting a long-time unbalance of trade with the U.S. should be to expand exports, not curtail imports.

Traditional Liberal policy has been to expand trade, Mr. Pearson said, criticizing the Conservative proposal to divert 15 per cent of Canada's trade with the U.S. to the United Kingdom.

The Liberal leader said attempts of some groups in the U.S. to restrict Canadian imports through heavy tariffs have been "unfair and unwarranted."

"When in office we did our best to keep in check these protectionist tendencies... but we didn't have all the success we hoped for."

Faced with the same situation, the Conservatives had sent a special mission to Washington "with no more success than we had."

At the same time, Mr. Pearson warned that "nothing could hurt us more than a trade war with our neighbor."

Trade with Britain poses different problems than trade with the U.S., he said.

'Tax Cut Possible' Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today a tax cut is a possibility if, as he put it, there is a deepening of the business depression.

Eisenhower said a tax reduction would not necessarily be his administration's last resort in dealing with economic conditions.

He said a great deal of money is going to be spent on public works, flood control, defence and other domestic budget items.

STRAIGHTFORWARD APPROACH

Mr. Pearson made a profound impression on two Vancouver Island audiences Tuesday with his straightforward approach to questions.

With complete ease and naturalness, he met each question head-on, with no attempt at side-stepping. If he couldn't answer, he said so frankly.

At the Royal Theatre rally in the evening, Mr. Pearson went so far as to repeat two questions designed to embarrass his party so that the rest of the audience could hear them.

Earlier in the day, at a noon-hour meeting in Nanaimo, the Liberal leader perched himself on the end of a table on the stage with one leg dangling over the side as he answered queries on a wide range of subjects.

Was he in favor of increasing the present $10,000 annual indemnity for MPs?

"I think the members are doing all right with what they're getting now," he replied, adding that he sees no need of an increase for the next five years.

Asked at the Victoria meeting about the non-confidence motion he introduced in Parliament calling on the Conservatives to resign and turn the government over to the Liberals, Mr. Pearson said there was constitutional precedent for it.

The motion sought the support of the other parties for the Liberal program, he said.

"But they wanted no part of it at all—and I can understand that."

To other questioners Mr. Pearson said he is not in favor of a capital gains tax in a "young and growing" country like Canada; wouldn't change the operation of the Trans-Canada Pipe line, and defended large-scale immigration in the last few years which he said had added new wealth to the country and actually stimulated employment.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

One night last week, after a whole afternoon and evening of listening to speeches, I became slightly delirious and pictured the B.C. government as an orchestra under the masterful baton of maestro Premier Bennett.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston went one better Tuesday by likening the Social Credit administration to a gallant ship battling its way through a squall, hatches battened down, engines running at full power while Captain Premier Bennett strode the bridge, determined to keep his vessel on course.

In our mind's eye the cabinet suddenly sprouted peaked sailor caps and, above the shriek of the wind, we seemed to hear First Officer Philip Gagliardi booming instructions to the deck crew while Captain Bennett hurried to his cabin and scribbled a terse memo to Chief Engineer Robert Bonner.

"Get up a good head of steam—I am expecting dirty weather."

However, Mr. Williston's simile (as he called it) did not quite reach that stage of whimsy. He likened the B.C. ship of state to an "economic tug."

"This ship has a captain," Mr. Williston said, "and he is on course. He may be facing a bit of a squall just now but he has no intention of altering his course and he knows where he is going."

Here there was a lamentable interruption from the land-lubbers on the Opposition side of the house.

"We know where he is going — straight down," said CCF leader Robert Strachan.

"No tows will be abandoned. A couple of anchors, ensnared in debt, will be cut adrift and a few fresh towlines will be put aboard.

"The engines will be maintained to provide full power. The hatches may be battened down and the captain may be in his cabin where you cannot see his ready smile. But he is still there and working harder than ever.

"It is true the paint may be slightly chipped and the meals and service a little less refined. But essentially we are sailing a good sound ship, on course and with plenty in reserve.

"The Opposition would have the faint-hearted run for the lifeboats, since their cloudy prognostications offer little navigational assistance to those charged with responsibility.

Social Credit Names Bell In Esquimalt

Esquimalt-Saanich Social Credit federal nominating meeting Tuesday unanimously named Noel Bell as candidate for the March 31 election.

About 100 persons attended the meeting in Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall.

Three other persons, Carey W. Smalley, Mrs. C. Hyndman and Derek Pethik, also were nominated but declined in favor of Mr. Bell.

Mr. Bell, a salesman, was defeated in the last election, polling 2,724 votes compared to 11,765 for Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, now minister of national defence.

He said he expects to obtain the necessary Soviet clearance after reaching England so that he can attend a screening of one of his films in Moscow March 4. The showing has been arranged as a cultural exchange program.

FATHER, 78, LAW STUDENT

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A 78-year-old father of five children has enrolled in the University of Bridgeport for a law degree. Maurice Friedman has registered in the university's evening division and expects to enroll as a full-time student in September. "At my age it's hard to get a job anywhere," he said.

Labor Council Seeks Bonner Resignation

Demand for immediate resignation of Attorney-General Robert Bonner for his handling of the Sommers case will be sent to Premier Bennett by Victoria Labor Council.

Copies of the resolution also will be sent to Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and the B.C. Federation of Labor. They were being prepared today.

The resolution was authorized by a special meeting of the VLC executive Monday. It is a reworded version of a resolution passed last week by the council that was withdrawn by the executive.

It demands resignation of the attorney-general because he "did, contrary to his duties of office, in our opinion, ignore for nearly two years evidence submitted to him on the Sommers case."

345 Protest 'Outside' Vote On Big Project

CAMPBELL RIVER — A protest against "outsiders" being allowed to vote Monday in a plebiscite on the proposed $2,000,000 waterfront development here has been signed by 345 village residents and forwarded to Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston.

Ratepayers within an area six miles north and south of the village, and on Quadra Island, will be allowed to vote.

The plebiscite was ordered by the government to ascertain public opinion on the issue, which has been the subject of heated controversy in the area.

John D. Hints Speedy Social Security Action

HULL, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, speaking optimistically of Progressive Conservative election chances March 31, has hinted at speedy action to broaden Canada's social security system.

"I believe it will not be very long before we will be in a position to introduce in the new Parliament a contributory social security system," he said here Tuesday night.

He said, too, he has found everywhere "a groundswell of feeling" that his Conservative government should be returned with a majority mandate because it has carried out its promises and deserves a chance to implement its larger program of national development.

Mr. Diefenbaker flew today to Rimouski for his third campaign in Quebec prior to a three-day swing east to Charlottetown, Sydney, N.S., and Saint John, N.B.

The prime minister hinted at a possible extension of the period in which supplementary winter unemployment insurance benefits are paid.

He also indicated prompt action on holding an "informal" meeting between the federal government and municipal representatives, he said it would occur after the election—to hear municipal views on their financial problems.

EDMONTON (CP) — Solon Low, national Social Credit party leader, says the only difference between the "two old parties" is that "one is in and the other is out trying to get in."

Mr. Low also said Tuesday night in an address over a national television network that the March 31 federal general election is unnecessary, irresponsible and extravagant.

Mr. Low accused both the former Liberal and Progressive Conservative governments of burying an analysis of Canada's economic situation in March, 1957, prepared by M. W. Sharp of the federal trade department and containing "many warnings of the serious downturn in economic activity."

REGINA (CP) — CCF leader Coldwell said Tuesday night that the royal commission on energy resources is designed to "smother" demands that the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline be publicly owned.

Speaking on a live television broadcast, Mr. Coldwell said the commission will remove from the government responsibilities it assumed while in opposition.

BRANFORD, Conn. (AP) — Actress Paulette Goddard and novelist Erich Maria Remarque were married Tuesday in a quiet civil ceremony.

"I'm very happy," said the 42-year-old actress after she was married for the fourth time. It was the second marriage for Remarque, 59.

'Getting Facts' On Westcoast, Says Pearson

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Tuesday he is gathering a file on operations of the Westcoast Transmission Company Ltd.

"I will say something about it during the campaign, if necessary," he said in a press conference in the Empress Hotel before addressing a Liberal rally at the Royal Theatre.

Asked if he had any comment on Westcoast's export of natural gas at cheaper prices to U.S. consumers than those charged to B.C. purchasers, Mr. Pearson said:

"I wouldn't want to say anything until I have gone into the matter thoroughly. It's a highly complicated subject. I'm gathering facts now and I've sent to Ottawa for some facts."

Westcoast obtained its export licence through a private bill passed by Parliament while the Liberals were still in power.

"As I recall, some B.C. Conservatives fought pretty hard for that bill. That's no criticism because there were some Liberals, too."

Significantly, he added that Parliament had passed legislation giving it control over exports of natural gas and "as I recall there were more regulations included that dealt with

'VICTORY' SWEATER FOR PEARSON

Liberal Leader Lester Pearson was presented Tuesday with a Cowichan Indian "victory" sweater.

prices. That could be used at any time."

Nothing that he had been criticized from some quarters for silence on the subject, he said:

"I will say something about that later in the campaign, if necessary."

Later he changed the statement to say he "may" speak on the subject.

Appeared Little Tired But Cheery

Mr. Pearson pointed out that although not before the courts, power policies are under study by a royal commission at the present time and comments on the situation had to show some recognition of the fact.

"I want to find out all the facts first," he said.

Mr. Pearson appeared a little tired but was cheery throughout the interview, often joking with the reporters.

Continuously on the road since Feb. 18 when he launched a whirlwind campaign in Ontario, he arrived in Victoria at 5:30 p.m. after several stops up Island.

No Pearson-Diefenbaker Debate

The Liberal leader said there was "no foundation" to rumors that he and Prime Minister John Diefenbaker may meet on the same platform during the campaign.

He said if it occurred it would set some sort of precedent in Canadian history.

2ND CLASS IN EAST?

City Weather Scores Hit With Leader

Victoria's balmy climate makes the rest of Canada feel under-privileged, Lester Pearson said Tuesday night.

"We're almost second-class citizens," the Liberal leader told his appreciative Royal Theatre audience.

Mr. Pearson referred to this area as a "haven of beauty and rest," but added he wasn't getting much rest on this visit.

"BUMPING DOWN"

Earlier, former fisheries minister James Sinclair was not so complimentary about another aspect of local life.

"Bumping down" from Nanaimo, he said, he had pointed out to Mr. Pearson the same "Sorry for the inconvenience" sign on the Malahat he had shown former Liberal leader Louis St. Laurent last year.

"It's almost a landmark," Mr. Sinclair said. "I hope it will be gone by the next election."

JAMES SINCLAIR

Tory Gov't Aggravated Unemployment--Sinclair

Former Fisheries Minister James Sinclair blamed Conservative government policies Tuesday night for "aggravating" the unemployment problem.

The government did little to combat the growing economic recession in its eight months in office, Mr. Sinclair told the Liberal rally at the Royal Theatre.

Unemployment is a major issue in the present election campaign, Mr. Sinclair said.

"I don't think it is a short-term problem. It is a matter of really serious emergency."

The former Liberal cabinet minister, an MP in the last Commons for Coast-Capilano, said the Conservatives could not be held "wholly responsible" for the economic slump which is also being felt in other countries.

"But it is fair to say Tory policies have aggravated the problem," he said.

Because of uncertainty about the government's fiscal policies, investment funds have been held back, Mr. Sinclair said.

The recently-announced public works program would have been of more value in creating jobs if it had been brought in last fall, he said.

Mr. Sinclair repeated the offer made by the former Liberal

Hockey fans who passed up the Liberal rally Tuesday night to watch the Cougars in action got an understanding nod from another ardent hockey lover.

"I hate to think what I would have done not so many years ago if I had to choose between a hockey game and a political meeting," national leader Lester Pearson told his audience at the Royal Theatre.

Trade With Britain

WHEN MR. PEARSON SPOKE in Victoria almost a year ago he was attacked as an unfaithful friend of Britain by the Conservatives who are now claiming credit for his policy in the Suez crisis.

The attack was false but that dirty water is over the dam. The practical question before us today is how, in Mr. Pearson's words, Canada and Britain "can help each other."

His answer to that question last night was very clear—he would expand Canada's trade with Britain.

This has become more than a question. It is now a clear issue in the current election. It was bound to become an issue when, last summer, the British Government offered a transatlantic free trade arrangement to Canada and the Diefenbaker Government, which considers itself Britain's only real friend in this country, immediately took fright.

The British offer was not openly rejected. It was ignored. It was ignored, of course, because it would immediately undermine the Government's policy of high tariff protection for the great manufacturing industries of central Canada where even now the Government is moving to restrict British textile imports.

Mr. Pearson, in a quiet speech of reason rather than denigration, announced his policy toward the British offer. Admitting that it raised great and complex economic questions, he pledged himself, if elected, to give the offer immediate, exhaustive and sympathetic consideration.

He went further than that, however. The time, he suggested, has come for daring and imaginative trading policies throughout the Atlantic community which, as he said, requires economic as well as military defence. The nations of that community, he urged, should consider an expansion of the British trade proposal to include them all.

If this seems at first sight a drastic and almost revolutionary change in the economy of the free world, the alternative may be just as formidable. For as Mr. Pearson observed, Britain and Western Europe are now erecting their own free-trade area and if Canada is excluded from it the consequences to our exports will be grave indeed.

New Conductor, Old Overture

CHEN YI, BLUFF SOLDIER-turned-diplomat, is the new foreign minister of Red China. But his succession to the post formerly held by Premier Chou En-lai is expected to cause no major changes in China's foreign policy.

That policy, the experts believe, will continue to emphasize the Sino-Soviet alliance, the "liberation" of Taiwan, and sustained efforts to win friends and influence people among the nations of Asia and Africa.

The change, if there is to be change, is expected to be in the manner of approach rather than in direction. The personality factor will probably be the most notable difference.

Chen Yi rose to his new position of importance after a mixed and impressive career.

In his early years, the new minister went to France on a scholarship, ran out of money and found a job as an ironworker in a French arsenal in post First World War days.

His interest in communism, born while abroad, was formally declared on his return to China in 1923. But it was a communism, in its early stages, which did not follow unquestioningly the Moscow line.

In China Chen Yi distinguished himself in the military field against Japan and later against Chiang Kai-shek.

He is the official chosen at the last party congress to define Red China's foreign policy, to beat the drum against colonialism and to assure the Asian-African countries that the leaders of China "firmly believe that revolution is not for export; we shall never interfere in the internal affairs of other countries."

The occupant of the foreign minister's post is new. His statements are not.

First Concern for the Ill

NO ONE WILL CONTRADICT the general argument of Health Minister Eric Martin that if hospital operating costs cannot be kept within reason there is a very real danger "that everyone will suffer," or his statement that "costs cannot be allowed to jump beyond the ability of the people to pay."

But there is a great deal of difference between these generalities and the particular situations which arise in British Columbia's hospitals. Mr. Martin must recognize the fact when he contemplates the injurious effects of stringent government budgetary policies on the hospitals.

While the minister is shaking his finger, is he giving adequate thought to the effect these policies have on patients housed in hospitals which have to pinch pennies?

Hospital administrators, who are doing a conscientious job for the ill, are naturally concerned by the continuing trade against costs. They are conscious of the need to watch

Or if we have to choose between the huge American market and a growing market in Britain and Europe that will be a desperate choice.

Hence his proposal to take Britain's offer seriously, for the benefit both of Britain and Canada, his plan to expand these negotiations to a much wider field and his advocacy of expanded trade on all fronts rather than a restrictive diversion, as proposed by Mr. Diefenbaker.

The threat of diverting fifteen per cent of our trade from the United States Mr. Pearson considers both unworkable and unwise.

It is unworkable because anything like a trade war with our largest customer, where we sell most of our exports, could not fail to damage Canada's exporting industries, including those of British Columbia.

It is unwise, as a threat, because it gives invaluable ammunition to all the powerful pressure groups in the United States that are trying at this moment to restrict Canadian imports. Already these interests are using Mr. Diefenbaker's hasty statement as an argument to prove that the United States must protect itself from damage in the Canadian market by further protecting its own from our goods. The argument may be unsound and unfair but it will certainly be used with effect in the Congress this year.

Mr. Pearson is as much concerned as any Canadian with the danger of increased American tariffs, he denounces such steps as the recent restrictions on our oil, he warns the Americans bluntly against those policies but he believes that we should be thinking not of counter-threats but of a new and far-reaching approach to the trade relations of all the free countries.

His speech was remarkable not only for its arguments on trade, on joint defence and other concrete problems but for its tone. Clearly Mr. Pearson does not propose to compete with Diefenbaker in oratory, promises or abuse. He rates the intelligence of the Canadian people high enough to argue issues, present policies, answer questions candidly and leave the decision to the voters.

His large, attentive audience indicated that the people of Victoria appreciate this fair method of debate.

expense. They note an absence of evidence suggesting unnecessary expenditure or wastefulness in their institutions.

They are conscious, too, of the weakness inflicted on hospitals which are forced into deficits by government financial strictures.

Moreover, the administrators in British Columbia draw an interesting comparison with Ontario. British Columbia costs are higher, since higher wage scales prevail here as the result of greater union organization. The hospitals cannot be blamed for that.

As costs in general rise throughout Canada, the British Columbia rate also goes up. But the administrators point out that the British Columbia rate of increase is falling—has been falling for the last 10 years—in comparison to Ontario.

These are particulars which cannot escape the minister's attention while he is propounding his generalities.

Keeping the Wilderness

LIKE OUR EARLY SPRING efforts to preserve park regions on the lower Island are "busting out all over," to the satisfaction of Greater Victorians with an eye to the future.

Most recently, the city public works committee has supported the establishment of a 400-acre nature sanctuary northwest of Thetis Lake. This is part of the area where logging was proposed. That plan seems now to have been abandoned in this section.

Under the present scheme, wildflowers and trees would be protected there, new species would be introduced and wild animals would be safeguarded against hunters.

As this community grows, the need for such semi-wilderness areas will become more apparent. The public works committee is making no mistake in its proposal as far as it goes.

WINTER SEEMS AN APPROPRIATE TIME FOR AN ELECTION—

FOR THE FUTURE

By B. A. TOBIN

Train Without Strain

VARIOUS health authorities in Canada are expressing concern over the physical development of Canadian children. Tests a year or two ago in the United States led to the same sort of comment down there—that children on this continent are healthy enough but they lack the muscular ability of youngsters in Europe.

A recent survey in a Toronto suburb shows that our children are stiff in the legs and lower back, whereas Western European moppets are much more agile and get far higher marks for a series of standard exercises. The same muscular deficiencies, according to the report, give Canadian children a poorer posture than the Europeans enjoy.

Tobin

Easy Living

The reason for it all, say the experts, is that the North American way of life is too soft. The youngsters of today don't walk as much as they used to, or as much as they should. They don't play active games enough. They're more inclined to ride to school in Daddy's car, sit in cheering sections and watch a selected few play games.

And at home THEY WATCH TV. That's the real culprit, according to some of those who worry about such trends.

They say too many children spend too much time sitting, slumping, lolling—motionless, inert, stalled—just watching television.

But it seems to me the experts are overlooking one factor here. The ideal of a muscular, flexible body has always been accepted because that was the sort of physical development that was necessary to meet the needs of the average person's life.

But is a strong, flexible body required for the life that awaits our children? If we give them such bodily equipment are we really preparing them properly for the sort of existence ahead of them?

With a Purpose

It begins to look as though, in letting our children develop certain muscles and postures appropriate only for TV-watching, we are giving them a better start in life than if we made them build up running, jumping and bending muscles.

In other words, if they're going to spend their lives sitting down looking at TV screens, why not train and develop their bodies for it right from the start?

After all, it seems to be merely a matter of specialization.

The youngster in Brussels, Marseilles or Milan may be able to perform a few feats of muscular strength and elasticity appropriate to his current activities. But could he or she sit for two solid hours without moving a muscle, with chin sunk on chest, with eyeballs popping and breath wheezing through gaping mouth?

That's a physical test for any youngster, and you can bet that only our young North American athletes could successfully pass it.

The European child would be tired and restless in no time. He would lack the stamina, the muscular control and the nervous concentration necessary for life on this continent.

He might excel in push-ups, but how would he be in the neck-droop and the chin-up? Let him do his knee-bends and toe-touching; how would he survive an hour or two of eye-roll and spine-slump?

If survival is a matter of fitness, then the European child, bulging with muscles and elastic tendons, would have to adapt himself very quickly to our environment or die out as a separate species.

Of course, on the other hand, trained to a fine point by hour after hour of inactivity, his body permanently adapted to a scarcely breathing, chest-filled slouch; his eyes bulging in a 21-inch stare from under lowered brows; his hands, arms, feet and legs accustomed to whole afternoons and evenings of listless inertness, will fit perfectly into the environment we are constructing. He will flourish and thrive on such conditions—perhaps alone of all the creatures on earth.

For the Future

With such a state of bodily development the North American child will have no trouble at all in entering upon the full life that is in store in the age of the atom and of space. With only a little additional training he will be able to raise a forefinger to push the buttons which will control the brave new worlds.

His physical development will be nicely gauged to provide just the strength needed for this activity, and no more. The pushbutton, symbol of the millennium that awaits us, will be under the precise control of his just-adequate thumb.

As for space travel, only a trained TV watcher could endure the days of motionless in a half-reclining posture that will be demanded of the rocket passenger. His eyes will be well adapted for peering at lighted screens and gauges, his trusty forefinger poised to press the appropriate switch when required. It needs little analysis to see that TV watching is really a supreme preparation for space travel. And the fortunate children of Canada will be the ready and fully-conditioned heirs of this glorious new era.

Forecast

Your editorial of Wednesday, Feb. 19, was very good and timely, the heading, "Manoeuvring for What?" is well put. It seems to me that Russia is stalling for time to launch Sputnik V which will no doubt neutralize our D.E.W. Radar lines, disrupt all our radios and also put the TV sets all out of commission.

This is foretold in Isaiah 28:19. The man, today, who advocates an early Summit meeting is far ahead of the man who would lead us to the "brink of war."

Reply to Mr. Bruch

Re the statement to the Times of Herbert Bruch, Social Credit MLA for Esquimalt that the V.I. farmers put on a "disgusting exhibition" in their march on the Legislative Assembly. We consider it more "disgusting" that we had to take such steps.

Bruch states, "If the people of B.C. are going to band themselves into petty little groups, each demanding special consideration for their own pecuniary interests, etc." so it appears that Herb Bruch approves of the Milk Boards' action in taking approximately $360,000 per year from the meagre earnings of about 400 V.I. dairy farmers and adding that much to the profits of a few distributors so that they may continue their inefficient system of handling our milk.

I trust the farmers and all those who believe in a fair deal will remember Bruch's attitude when election time comes around.

Bruch says "Is the parade marshal [George] Whittaker" inviting that type of boozing at the North Cowichan Council meetings or at School Board meetings?"

Well, Mr. Bruch, if the school board felt justified in cutting 50 per cent or more off the school teachers' salaries we would expect an angry delegation, but I can assure you we would meet that delegation and not cower behind locked doors.

Courteous Court

Referring to your article in the Times of Feb. 17, relative to the Saanich Court of Revision.

As one who was in the courtroom at the time to which you refer, and on a later occasion, your criticism of the action and behavior of the presiding officer appears to me to be most unfair. You correctly state the feelings of many of those in the audience.

However, it is incorrect to infer that the apparent indignation was not understood by the official in charge.

In order to open the proceedings with decorum, it was necessary for the chair to outline with a degree of firmness the purpose and functions of the revision court. This was done with urbanity and consideration, even by allowing questions to be asked for clarification of any matter which could come up for discussion.

This letter is not written in defence of the presiding officer, or those associated with him. If such were necessary the manner in which the proceedings were conducted throughout would be sufficient answer to your article.

The three gentlemen comprising the board were performing a public service. This was executed with courtesy and every endeavor to assist the appellants in presenting their appeals.

Is it surprising that difficulty is experienced in obtaining capable men for public service when they are subjected to such criticism from the press?

JOHN D. WEBB.
2869 Inlet Avenue.

Voter's Responsibility

We are on the eve of another election, the outcome of which public opinion will decide. What party shall lead us, or drive us for the coming five years?

What is required of candidates for election? Is it party affiliation only; anything to assure a majority? What about qualities such as sincerity, integrity, devotion to public welfare and progress?

Something more than this is absolutely essential, and applies to the individual electors. To vote intelligently the electorate must be competent to differentiate between what is fundamentally good and support it, and what is temporary and superficial only and reject it.

Pre-election promises we can look to for fulfillment, but propaganda may be bait only, and taken with a pinch of salt or utterly rejected. So we, the electorate must accept responsibility for failure of those we vote into office, if we claim ignorance of candidates' unfitness, or the worthlessness of the platform advocated.

TV program "Close Up," Sunday evening described a kind of Gallup poll, and induced me to write above. Questions asked the man on the street, women too, referred to popular parliamentary representation. Results nil, or almost. Total ignorance was admitted by almost every individual interviewed. It would be enlightening were such a poll taken here, and results published in the Times.

FROM LONDON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

London: Facade or Reality?

Mr. Joseph Alsop, long a friend of Britain and a frequent visitor to that country, in the following article gives personal reactions to current conditions there in an effort to stir American realization of the need for greater overseas assistance.

IN the pale February sunshine, thirteen years after the great victory, London hardly seems the same wounded hero of a city that it used to be for so long after the war. The outward surface is more prosperous than ever. The magical London combination of green open space and crowded avenue, of intimacy and public splendour, of double polished glossiness and carefully preserved patina of age, is also more magical than ever, because it is so unchanging in a fast-changing world. And London is more than ever the most agreeable of all the great world cities for a foreign visitor.

Alsop

More Appropriate

These reflections on London's surface may seem more appropriate for a postcard for the homefolks, showing some such familiar tourist sight as the changing of the guard. Yet they are necessary, in order to put into proportion the fairly brutal thing that also needs to be said.

In sum, this London with its rich and charming surface, whose shining courage so recently set an example to the world, is now a city that all but stinks of defeat.

The fact, if it is a fact, is of infinite importance to all the nations of the West. But judgments of atmospheres are unavoidably personal; and so I shall speak more personally in the present report than is customary in this space.

In the postwar years, I have made at least one visit of inquiry to London each year. In all that period, whether under governments of Conservative or Labour, the essential London drama has been the same.

It has been the drama of the British people grimly struggling to maintain Britain's historic role as one of the great world powers, after the fearful human and material and strategic losses of the Second World War.

Moving Drama

It has been a pretty, moving drama to watch, but now it seems to be coming to an end. There are just too many signs of the disarray that always, in every army, foretells the acceptance of defeat.

For example, the feature of British political life that has always most amazed me was the fact that at any given moment, almost everyone from the Prime Minister downwards, at every level and in every sphere, somehow struck the same note. It might be a belligerent note or a friendly note or any other kind of note. But it was always the same.

It used to make me feel like a geologist climbing about over an enormous rock, tapping with his hammer everywhere, and always getting exactly the same "ping" or "pong," wherever he tapped. But all this is over now.

The most extraordinary and discordant variety of notes is now to be heard, from the different leaders of the two major parties, from the civil servants and the ministers they are charged with advising, even among the higher permanent staffs of single ministries.

The cause of this wholly novel discord of ideas and attitudes is really simple enough. Britain today is squarely confronted with at least half a dozen major problems which Britain alone does not have the means to solve.

There is Britain's economic problem, which keeps Britain on a permanent brink of disaster.

For example, approximately twenty-two per cent of Britain's lifeblood, the hard currency revenue of the Sterling area, comes from two highly unstable ex-colonial countries, Ghana and Malaya.

Again, the loss of the Middle Eastern oil sources, which are now in ever-greater danger, will add a cruel billion dollars a year to the debit side of Britain's national balance sheet. A single individual, the Sheikh of Kuwait, contributes very nearly ten per cent of the new capital annually available in the sterling area, which is desperately short of capital. And so the story goes.

There is Britain's strategic problem, which is insoluble because of the economic problem.

Support Costs

For example, the so-called support costs which the Germans have been paying for the British divisions in NATO amount to less than one hundred and thirty million dollars. But because the Germans are refusing to pay these costs, the British government is thinking of cutting its NATO contribution beyond the point of acute danger, in a way that will prejudice all Britain's relations with the new Europe, and for a sum really hardly larger than the British pig subsidy.

There is the Middle Eastern problem, which appears to be growing desperate.

For example, the old Iraqi strong man, Nuri Pasha, was recently in London to repeat his anguished warnings that the Kremlin would soon play the anti-Israeli ace, which will in turn take every trick in the Arab pack.

The leading British experts are now reluctantly convinced that Nuri's warnings are probably well founded. But in all the British government, I could not discover any man with any positive idea about parrying this prospective Soviet maneuver, which will be like a dagger thrust at Britain's very jugular.

One could continue the recital almost indefinitely, covering all the foreign policy problems involved in the approach to the summit conference, all the domestic political problems revealed by the Conservative Party's defeat in the Rochdale by-election, and so on. But I have said enough to illustrate the tragic point I have been trying to make.

If it is a true point, it is tragic for America, as well as for Britain: for Britain's defeat will almost surely mean the West's defeat.

Worse still the people of America will have their own share of the blame for the tragedy. For vigorous, imaginative and courageous American leadership is now the most essential ingredient in the solution of almost all the allies' problems and Britain's above all. And this essential American ingredient has been utterly lacking for the last five years.

'Jones Family' Vital To National Economy

By TONY DICKASON
We owe the Jones family — that family we all try to keep up with — a debt.

And gratitude. The Joneses are the family that keep the national economy from descending into a slump. So says Glenn Fouché, a silver-tongued and resonant man, is chairman of the 30,000-member National Sales Executives, Inc., with headquarters in New York.

The organization consists of top-echelon salesmen, who represent the "exec" who look after the successes and foibles of 2,500,000 lesser salesmen throughout the world.

Mr. Fouché says we NEED the Jones family because "they constantly lift their sights and look for something better."

Thus the economy follows. He was in town Tuesday to address the Sales Executive Club of Victoria in the course of a tour as chairman which will take him to 25 U.S. and Canadian clubs.

Salesmanship, said, the top salesman, is merely the science of distribution, and this is vital, as only by selling can such things as ICBMs be financed.

The price comes from the public, and the public must be in a position economically to finance. "Salesmen are also a line of defence."

Economic stability, he maintained, is built by money spent, not money saved.

"The world has never had over-production, but has had under-consumption."

The "fear" of a depression, or a recession, can build exactly this situation, said Mr. Fouché. "We can talk ourselves into it."

"We bet on the future. This is basic. Without it there can be no future."

Public thinking has for 20 years been conditioned to boom times. This is not a continuing norm, he said.

"But, if this can be called recession, it is the most prosperous we have ever had."

Museum Plans Series Repeat

The Provincial Museum next month again will present its popular series of nature films for children and adults.

The program will start Saturday for children with a film entitled "Backyard Exploration".

Because of limited space in the museum, the nature film will be shown at 9:30 a.m. and again at 11 a.m. Admission tickets will be distributed free through Greater Victoria schools.

The B.C. Electric Co. has also agreed to permit children to use school bus tickets on Saturday morning, providing they can show their tickets of admission to the museum.

The adult program will be held at 2:30 p.m., Sunday afternoon. Children will be admitted only if accompanied by an adult.

The museum's children program will be shown every Saturday in March at the same time. The same films, along with others, will be shown on Sunday afternoons, for adults.

Last year a similar nature film series was shown.

A levelling off can be good for the economy, he said.

Aggressive salesmanship, Mr. Fouché, admitted, has created some misunderstanding, but progress enjoyed in making people "want things before they need them," is the basis of a sound economic status, he said.

Personally, "I travel with 25 ties. Do I need them? Of course not."

Mr. Fouché is also vice-president of Parade publications, which has a supplement which goes to 59 U.S. newspapers with a weekend circulation of more than 8,000,000.

Also makes rich, beefy gravy without added fat. Crumble one OXO cube with one tsp. four. Add cup cold water, bring to boil. Simmer 5 minutes.

TCA Airliner Struck By Bolt of Lightning

MONTREAL (CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount aircraft with 22 passengers aboard was slightly damaged by lightning Tuesday on a flight between Boston and Yarmouth, N.S., the company said today. It returned safely to Boston.

A TCA spokesman said here today the plane was never in any actual danger, although the passengers were frightened when the craft ran into bad weather. They were unaware of any damage until the plane landed.

"I've done a lot of flying and this was the worst flight I've ever been on," Mrs. Evelyn Goodwin of Tewksbury, Mass., was quoted as saying.

The lightning bolt burned out two of the Viscount's electrical discharge wicks on the wing tips and burned pinholes in the elevators. The damage, which the company termed minor, was repaired in Boston and the plane took off again, landing in Nova Scotia six hours behind schedule. It later flew to Montreal.

A TCA spokesman said the Viscount probably was not struck by lightning, but built up a large charge of static electricity which eventually discharged from the plane, either to a cloud or the ground.

"It's a common occurrence which does not endanger passengers or—usually—frighten them," a TCA official said. "But since the wicks were burned out, there probably was a pretty big bang which would be startling to most people."

Pilot of the aircraft was Capt. I. H. Kelsey, 35, of Montreal.

Firemen Complete Wire Fence

Langford volunteer firemen have completed their part of the community's centennial project by putting a 1,300-foot wire fence around a seven-acre playground.

Property will be developed by other community organizations in time for Langford centennial celebrations June 21.

The playground is on the site of the former fair grounds at the rear of the community hall. Firemen purchased the wire and cut their own fence posts in the bush.

Shaw Picks Assistant

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jerry Williams, Montana State University football coach, has been named top assistant to Buck Shaw, with Philadelphia Eagles, of the National Football League.

Williams is the first assistant selected by Shaw since he signed as Eagle coach.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and poisons stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

"WILL IT FLY?"—That, says Kenneth Lundgren, is the question he's asked most by admirers who see his do-it-yourself auto on the streets of Houston, Tex. Dubbed the "Globester," it's 18 feet long, 6 feet wide, has 3 wheels, and a body shaped like an airplane fuselage. Lundgren, a mechanic who spent five years building it, describes the "Globester" as, "principally a Ford motor and rear end with a Chevy frame, Ford trim on the outside, Plymouth windshield wipers, and features of other cars." Steering is controlled by the one wheel in the rear.

U.K. Labor Split On Missile Bases

LONDON (Reuters)—The issue of setting up joint American-British missile bases here, spotlighted by a defence debate in Parliament today and Thursday, has produced a split in the Labor party.

Sixty-nine Labor MPs are pressing the party leadership to oppose the establishment of these bases, announced Monday, under any circumstances. At present the Labor leaders merely claim they should not be set up until after summit talks with Russia.

The 69, including Ian Mikardo and Edwin Gooch, members of the party national executive, signed a letter published today in The Daily Herald, official organ of the Labor movement, calling on their leaders to press for the agreement to be revoked.

Man Charged With Murder

From CP Dispatches

VANCOUVER—Steve Koleszar, 46, was charged Tuesday with murder following the death Monday night of William Bourne, who lived at the same address.

Lila Marie Alex, 29, is being held as a material witness.

Bourne was found dead at the bottom of a stairway in the east-end rooming house late Monday night. Landlord Chow Bing phoned police after he heard what he described as a loud noise.

Other tenants also said they heard a loud noise but thought a party was in progress.

BILL OF RIGHTS NEEDED

NEW WESTMINSTER — Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan said here Tuesday night that Canadians need a bill of rights to protect them from boards and bureaus with powers capable of overshadowing those of the courts.

The woman, Mary Demchuk, 30, was remanded to family court when she appeared in police court charged under the Child Protection Act with abandoning the children.

Railway police took her from an outboard train Monday at the request of city police after a taxi driver turned the two children, a girl aged 6 and a boy aged 4, over to them.

CANADA'S FASTEST-SELLING COUGH REMEDY

Speaking at a meeting of the New Westminster Board of Trade, he asked: "Did you know that the Workmen's Compensation Board has the right to assign the name of Harry J. Sullivan to your payroll and demand payment of my back salary?"

He told the more than 300 businessmen present that the WCB "has the statutory power to decide whether I am your servant and entitled to collect a salary."

MOTHER CHARGED

VANCOUVER — A 30-year-old mother who police allege planned to take a train ride after depositing two young children in a taxi was detained here today.

Shuttle News Brightens As Eastern Stars Enter

Officials of Victoria Lawn Tennis Club may still be waiting for complete news on U.S. entries for the Canadian badminton championships here next week, but they have the assurance that the Dominion's greatest shuttle stars will compete in the four-day tourney.

Canadian Badminton Association, which has been struggling to release news of entries, has announced that all members of Canada's Thomas Cup team will compete in the tourney starting at the VLTBC's

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

When members of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association gather at their Goldstream clubhouse for a special meeting Sunday, they'll be taking their first steps along a modern trail that could become a familiar road in their hunt for the best answers to controversial problems.

Acting on a proposal by Charlie Burr, the VFGPA will hold a panel discussion on the red-hot question of any-sex seasons before deciding on recommendations for 1958 deer-hunting regulations.

At Sunday's session, which starts at 1 p.m., Burr and Naimmo's Ted Barsby will head opposing seven-member panels for a debate on the proposal that the association recommend a halt in "the shooting of does and antlerless deer for two years or until such time as a full study of all districts of Vancouver Island can be completed."

Moderator for the debate will be Jack Anderson, former VFGPA president.

Object of the panel method of discussion is to allow members to hear both sides of the question in a clearer, less-hectic manner than was possible at some previous meetings on controversial issues.

Burr and his panel will attempt to convince the meeting that shooting of does and fawns in the past few years has had a detrimental effect on deer herds in many parts of Vancouver Island.

Barsby, president of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, will have biologist Don Robinson on his team in his argument that allowing a certain number of antlerless deer to be taken each season enables hunters to harvest animals that would otherwise be wasted and will produce more consistent hunting over the years.

It is expected there will also be time for members to comment from the floor on the pros and cons of any-sex seasons before voting is held to decide what suggestions will be taken to the meeting of the Vancouver Island Affiliation of Fish and Game Clubs, from which proposals will be forwarded to the game commission.

Because it will provide an opportunity to observe how the panel system works out and because it may bring to light some new points in the year's hottest game topic, the debate should prove highly interesting.

The meeting is open to the public, but only those holding 1957 or 1958 VFGPA memberships will be eligible to cast votes. For any who may wish to have a say in the balloting, memberships will be available at the clubhouse prior to the meeting.

Regardless of what the game commission eventually decides on 1958 hunting regulations, hunters opposing antlerless seasons are to be commended for their battle for what they believe in and their ideas, even if considered biologically defective, deserve consideration from game officials.

The shield Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association presented to the crew of HMCS Ontario last week in recognition of contributions to the Salarium Salmon Derby was donated to the VSIAA by Capt. Eric Barnes.

Bluebacks ended a quiet spell off Crofton with a bang last weekend. Limit catches were the usual story and many of the quickest quotas were filled by anglers using green and white bucktails.

Another good spot over the weekend was Cowichan Bay, where spring salmon up to 21 pounds were testing tackle.

KNOWLEDGE PAYS OFF

Duncan Anglers Set Derby Pace

Familiarity with stream conditions, always an important factor in steelhead fishing, appears to be playing a decisive part in the first annual Duncan steelhead derby.

With only three weekends remaining in the three-month competition on the Cowichan, Chemainus and Koksilah Rivers, local anglers are threatening to sweep top honors in both the senior and junior divisions.

Bull Quitting, But Tinsley Returns Again

CALGARY (CP) — Dick the Bull, 34-year-old tackle with Calgary Stampede of the Western Football Conference for the last two years, has decided to retire from the game after 11 seasons of professional football.

Huffman joined Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 1951 after playing college football at Tennessee and with Los Angeles Rams of the U.S. National League. He is a native of Charleston, W. Va.

In Winnipeg at the same time, the signing of veteran tackle Buddy Tinsley was announced by the Bombers.

The 33-year-old Tinsley, one-time teammate of Huffman's, has been a conference all-star and all-Canadian several times.

In Edmonton, the Eskimos announced the signing of John Urses, 20-year-old native of Salt Lake City and a centre with the University of Utah last year.

Urses is the first new United States player signed this year by the Eskies. He was a unanimous All-Skyline Conference selection last season.

Amphion Street courts next Wednesday.

Pacific Northwest racquet aces, headed by Thomas Cupper Don Davis of Seattle, will also be sending a strong contingent. Included in the Washington and Oregon entries are those from Nick Johnston, who recently extended Canadian champion Dave McTaggart in the Seattle Open tourney; Russ Hill; Virginia Anderson, Zoe Yeager and Mary Jean Bushnell.

The Canadian cup players will be coming from San Diego, where they are playing the U.S. squad in an elimination round of the shuttle sport's version of the Davis Cup series this week-end.

Heading the Canadian Cup squad will be McTaggart, who is entered in the men's doubles event with fellow-Vancouverite Bert Ferguson.

Certain to make a strong bid for McTaggart's crown is Dave Carnwath of Woodstock, Ont., who trimmed the Vancouver star in Thomas Cup trials at Toronto in January.

Toronto's three cup players can also be counted on to be strong contenders for the men's singles crown. They are four-time Canadian champion Don Smythe, Bev Wescott and Bill Purcell.

MONTREAL ENTRIES

Four Montreal players were also announced as definite entries in the Victoria tournament today.

Harold Moody is to play in the men's singles, join Bill Bonney in the men's doubles and combine with Jean Millar in the mixed doubles.

Fourth member is Kae Grant who is to play ladies singles and team with Mrs. Millar in the ladies doubles.

All are members of the Montreal badminton and squash club.

It is also expected that American aces Joe Alston, Win Rogers and Martin Mendez will join Davis in the trip from San Diego to the Canadian event.

Canadian junior championships will also be run in conjunction with the senior events.

BUSY SCHEDULE

Play gets under way Wednesday at 10 a.m. and continues to 10 p.m. The same schedule will be in operation Thursday and Friday, with finals to be played Saturday between 2 and 5:30.

About 500 fans will be able to get seats for the first two days, and as play progresses and courts are cleared, seating capacity will be raised to about 700 for the last two days' play.

Tickets will go on sale March 3 at Eaton's for reserved seats. There will also be general admission rush seats available.

Reserved seats will cost 75 cents Wednesday; $1 Thursday, and $2 Friday and Saturday. General admission is 50 cents Wednesday; 75 cents Thursday, and $1.50 Friday and Saturday. A reserved seat pass for the entire tournament can be purchased for $4.50.

Badminton fans wishing to purchase their tickets now may do so by mail. All inquiries must be addressed to the Secretary - Manager, Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, 1935 Fort Street. Information may be obtained by phoning 2-1925.

Flyers Clinch Top Spot Again

ROSSLAND (CP) — Spokane Flyers captured the Western International Hockey League title for the second successive year when they downed Rossland Warriors 4-3 Tuesday night on the strength of three third-period scores within four minutes.

The victory left last year's Allan Cup finalists six points ahead of the second-place Warriors. Flyers still have two home games left.

Captain Jack Lancelotti, with a goal and two assists; Lorne Nadeau and Buddie Bodman, each with a goal and an assist, and Dave Gordichuck with a goal rounded out the Spokane attack.

Gil Desrosier scored two for the Warriors with Steve Shroy picking up the third.

Young Inside Ready To Rejoin Manchester

MANCHESTER, England (CP) — Bobby Charlton, Manchester United's 19-year-old inside left, practised on a slush-covered field Tuesday and was pronounced fit to rejoin the club for its Football Association Cup quarter-final at West Bromwich next Saturday.

Charlton is the third survivor of the plane crash at Munich to return to the lineup. Eight of his teammates died in the Feb. 6 disaster and the remaining members of the outstanding side in British soccer are still in hospital.

Can the Electrical Workers Justify Strike Action?

They are already paid higher wages than comparable tradesmen in any other province in Canada.

They are already paid substantially more than skilled trades in other industries in this area. They have been offered wage increases of up to 19 per cent.

THEY HAVE DEMANDED WAGE INCREASES OF UP TO 40 PER CENT

We regret that the electrical workers employed by B.C. Electric and the line contractors who do essential work for the company have served a strike notice rather than accept a generous wage settlement offered to them.

By using supervisory staff to operate the system, B.C. Electric will do its utmost to provide electric service if the strike is called.

After you have read the following facts we feel sure you will agree with the company that there is no justification for a strike.

1. Since June 27 of last year negotiations have continued between the company and the union, trying to reach a basis for the writing of a new agreement.
2. The union demanded wage increases of up to 40 per cent, plus a number of costly changes in working conditions.
3. A three-man conciliation board appointed under provisions of the Labor Relations Act of British Columbia included a chairman, a representative of the company and a representative of the union. This board unanimously recommended increases of up to 19 per cent, the major part of which would be retroactive, the balance effective in August.
4. The most recent increases awarded to other industries have been substantially lower. After an 84-day strike, the Pulp and Paper Workers settled for a 9 1/2 per cent increase. The Oil and Chemical Workers settled for an 11-cent to 22-cent increase. Workers in the fishing industry settled for a 17-cent to 20-cent increase.
5. The company felt that the conciliation board award was extremely generous to the union. However, because the board was unanimous and in the interests of preserving good relations with our employees and preventing inconvenience to customers the company accepted the board's recommendations.
6. The union rejected the board's award, subsequently passed a strike vote and on Monday afternoon advised the company that they intend to go on strike any time after 48 hours. This in spite of repeated efforts by the company to continue negotiations to effect a peaceful settlement.
7. In the interests of users of electric service, the company decided it should not go beyond the recommendations of the conciliation board, because the board's recommendations, if implemented, would increase operating costs by $600,000 per year, and construction costs by an additional $700,000 per year at the present level of activity.

The company has every intention of protecting your interest by refusing to meet exorbitant demands. We will put forward every effort to continue normal electric service. We sincerely hope you will support us.

Gold's Continue Surge at Toronto

Led by golds the Toronto stock market was in the midst of its best advance in eight sessions in moderate mid-afternoon trading today.

Steels and utilities were strong among industrial groups but refining oils, pipelines, financial institutions and agriculturals had a majority of losses. Most changes were fractional. Exceptions included Page-Hersey Tubes, up four points to 118, General Dynamics and Canada Packers B, each up a point.

Industrials paced a market recovery at New York in quiet afternoon trading.

AT TORONTO golds had a 5-to-1 edge on the upside with gains ranging to 40 cents among the issues selling at less than $10 and to 1/2 point among the higher-priced stocks. About two dozen stocks touched 52-week highs in this section. The rest of the mining list and western oils were narrowly higher with

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fair activity in flax was the feature of trading today, on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Some liberal offerings disclosed during early trade were based on weaknesses in the U.S. flax market Tuesday. Buying by export houses and other interests appeared on recessions and prices made some recovery from lower levels.

Oats and barley dealings showed domestic shipping demand and other shipping support. Prices were fairly steady.

There were no reports of any export business in Canadian coarse grains but there have been inquiries for Canadian oats.

Rye prices showed a firm trend reflecting trade in the Chicago rye market.

No overnight loadings of Canadian wheat were reported.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were all down one-eighth cent from Tuesday.

Tonnage Record Set at Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thanks to Pacific grain, last year was the best shipping year in the port's history and for most other British Columbia ports as well.

Latest customs figures issued by the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange show that 1,555 deep-sea vessels cleared the port last year. This compares with 1,214 deep-sea ships in 1956 and 1,237 in 1954.

The port of New Westminster also chalked up a record in 1957, with 487 clearances compared with 406 in 1956 and 433 in 1954.

Total exports from Vancouver reached a record total of 6,092,268 tons, compared with 5,417,766 tons in 1956.

Grain shipments accounted for the largest share of the increase, with a total from all British Columbia ports of 153,879,589 bushels in 1957, compared with 136,037,860 bushels in 1956.

BORDEN PROBE TOLD

No Advance Pact On U.S. Gas Exports

CALGARY (CP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited had no advance arrangement with the former Liberal government on the question of export of Canadian natural gas to the United States, company officials said Tuesday.

They said that while the Liberals and former trade minister C. D. Howe helped to get pipeline construction under way by loans and advice, they in no way promised Trans-Canada automatic approval of a permit to ship gas to the Midwest U.S.

The company ended nearly five days of detailed cross-examination before the Borden export commission Tuesday.

The commission, with special instructions to study Trans-Canada's plans for export, is scheduled to make an interim report to Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The Progressive Conservative government is not expected to decide on an export permit until the report is forwarded.

Through the sworn testimony of Trans-Canada President Charles Coates, the commission learned: That the Liberals made no advance commitment on Trans-Canada's proposed export project through Emerson, Man. The government had indicated it would wait for approval of such imports from the U.S. Federal Power Commission before deciding on Canadian export.

That Mr. Howe suggested a merger of two pipeline groups; one seeking permission to build a line from Alberta to Winnipeg and direct to Emerson, the other wanting to build a Canadian line to Montreal.

That a committee of civil servants agreed the federal government should go ahead with construction of 635-mile section of the Trans-Canada line through Northern Ontario and suggested an $80,000,000 direct loan be made to the company.

The loan was repaid last year. Witnesses of Trans-Canada answered all questions asked by commission counsel Arthur Pattillo and chairman Henry Borden, both of Toronto.

He also told Mr. Borden the matter of gas exports is not immediate, although if delayed there was the probability that American pipelines would start serving present U.S. markets. However, the loss would be temporary since American demand is likely to grow steadily.

Department Store Sales Set Record

OTTAWA (BUP) — Canadian department stores rang up record sales of $1,288,653,000 in 1957, an increase of 3.7 per cent from the 1956 figure, the bureau of statistics has announced.

For the month of December alone, sales totalled $171,994,000. The loss resulted from "extraordinary charges," with the company continuing a program of sharp inventory write-offs and liquidations starting in the preceding year.

All provinces shared in the 12-month increase, while only Manitoba and B.C. registered a decline in December.

Listening, Laughing, Munching 'Mike' Pearson Greet His Supporters

Manitowin Island, Ont., in Mr. Pearson's constituency of Algoma East. Next to her in line is Mrs. Ian Simpson, wife of the headmaster of Glenlyon School. In the second picture, he shares a joke with Maj. David

L. McKeand, 877 Newport. In the third picture, the Liberal leader munches a doughnut while recalling old times with Dr. F. T. Fairry, Victoria Liberal MP in the last Liberal government. At right, in Duncan,

Mr. Pearson accepts a Cowichan Indian sweater from Barbara Hudson, 12, on behalf of the Duncan and district Liberal Association. (Times and Flett Studio Photos.)

MONTE ROBERTS

I am forever telling you what the constituents have to say, in person, by phone, and by letter. Today it is my pleasure to report on a letter from a NON (repeat, NON) constituent. This letter has reference to a recent column regarding large, giant, and jumbo packages of Dissolve. And the NON-constituent has this delightful comment: "Your Favorite Wife should purchase one Jumbo size of Dissolve and sprinkle one Jumbo size Dissolve on one Monte Roberts and the column by the same name."

Ah, well. You can please some of the people some of the time. Or can you? My dear friends and good companions aboard HMCS Ontario as she steams toward far-away places with strange-sounding names will be glad to know their ship is featured on the back page of U.S. published, internationally-circulated magazines this week.

Yes, sir, there she is, large as life—the "BIG O." which is even the veriest lubber knows, is the affectionate nickname for our training cruiser. The "BIG O" appears in a full-page, color advertisement, which advises:

For the freshest new taste in smoking . . .
SMOKE THE BIG O.

Which is all very well, as long as the ERO doesn't follow the advice. (That's a nautical joke, son. Sort of.)

A new development in the Centennial heard situation has been brought to my attention. This is for men who don't wish to grow beards but also do not wish to shave during their weekends away from the office.

They have patterned themselves after the navy reserve men, who are widely known as weekend sailors. OUR boys call themselves "weekend bearders." When their wives protest because they do not shave on Sunday morning, the weekend bearders say they are growing Centennial whiskers. On Monday mornings, they say they've changed their minds, and shave as usual. So far it has worked fine. But I understand some of the wives are standing by to reprimand bearders.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mayor Percy Scourrah is expected to return to City Hall Friday after an absence of several weeks.

The mayor has been in Ottawa and Montreal and later took a short vacation. He attended an executive meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and discussed the fast ferry proposal with federal officials.

The city-operated Mountain View Home for elderly men will be entertained Friday night by a concert party from Pro Patria branch, Canadian Legion. Harbor Lights concert party entertained at the home last Friday.

Acting mayor Arthur Dowell said today he will recommend that Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee take up the matter of saving Craigflower Peninsula for a park.

Several local groups are protesting its proposed use as a housing site. He said he will suggest to Mayor Scourrah that the intermunicipal committee prepare a brief to the B.C. cabinet and the Capital District Improvement Commission.

All groups now interested in the project should be unified into one organization. "I think they would listen if we all spoke together," he stated.

Welsh Society of Victoria will honor its patron saint with a banquet and concert on St. David's Day, Saturday, at the Glenshiel Hotel, commencing at 7 p.m.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Cowichan returns 1.30 p.m. Sunday.

Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi return 3 p.m. March 6. Crescent, Cayuga, Skeena, Fraser, Margaree on Far East.

Ontario left on cruise to Hawaii, Fiji, Australia, New Zealand, returning May 5.

Sussexville and St. Therese left Monday, return 3.30 p.m. Tuesday.

Centennial safety awards will be presented to the B.C. Forest Ltd. plywood plant on George Road by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks at 11 a.m. next Wednesday. The awards are for an outstanding record of accident-free operation of the plywood plant.

Victoria Labor Council will co-ordinate activities of all union political education committees in the area. First meeting of the V.L.C.'s co-ordinating committee will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Labor Headquarters, 615 Pandora.

It was set up late last year under chairmanship of A. A. Playfair. Political education committees of the approximately 65 union affiliates are represented.

Seventy players took part in the weekly session of Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club Tuesday. North-south winners were Elizabeth Warren and Lil Tattersall, Otto Leessment and Louis Lindholm. Les Stewart and Gordon Rodger, Laura Tingley and John Allen, East-west, Ann Kocutyn and Doug Tuck, Eric Goodwin and Jim Duprau, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McConnell, Frank Artlett and Gordon Greenwood.

Representatives of city and Island organizations are expected to attend a meeting of Thetis Park Sanctuary Association in Victoria College room 210 Friday at 8 p.m.

Aims and objectives of the newly-formed group will be outlined, and a display of Emily Sartain's paintings of Thetis Park flowers will be on display.

Garden expert George Hepworth will give a rose-pruning demonstration in the rose garden of "Strangewood," 1800 Tyndall, Saturday at 2.30 p.m., for members of Gordon Head Garden Club.

The club meets next in Gordon Head Community Hall Monday at 8 p.m. President E. M. Brown will be in charge.

Joseph N. Frank, 44 Camden, was fined $250 and his driver's licence was suspended when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court today to a charge of impaired driving.

CPA Executive To Address Publicity Bureau

Principal speaker at the annual meeting of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau Friday will be former Victorian H. Bryan Renwick, vice-president in charge of traffic, Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Mr. Renwick is past president of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce and was an executive of United Airlines for two years before joining CPA in Vancouver.

He will speak at a publicity bureau luncheon in the Empress Hotel at 12 noon.

Among those attending will be Premier Bennett and a number of M.L.A.s.

Following the luncheon a three-act play tracing the history of tourism in Victoria in the past 100 years will be presented.

Assistant city engineer G. N. Worsley will address a meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society, Vancouver Island Chapter, in the Flame Room, B.C. Electric Building, tonight at 8. His paper is entitled "Traffic Signals—Their Study and Application."

The "Twilight Singers" will entertain friends and members of the congregation of St. Chad's Anglican Mission, Majestic and Hawthorne, Friday at 7.30 p.m. Their program will include songs and dances. The entertainment is in anticipation of St. Chad's Day Sunday.

Martin Hansen, 2120 Millstream, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court today to two charges of false pretences involving cheques for $25 and $5 and was remanded for sentence to Thursday.

Police said he cashed the first at Eng's Foodliner, 3475 Quadra, the second at Westview Service Station, Island Highway, both on Dec. 4, 1957.

Leonard Robert Rivard, Work Point, and William Rimmer, 827 North Park, each were fined $50 in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to having liquor in a restaurant.

Help Pours In for Mother Of Five Facing Eviction

A young mother of five who faced eviction from her home early this month has had her prayers answered by a Times reader.

Plight of the woman, whose husband is in a mental hospital, was told in The Times Feb. 6. Since then Barry Gollob, a friend of the family, received "dozens of calls" offering help.

Among callers was a subscriber to The Times who offered to rent a six-room home in Esquimalt to the family.

The mother and her brood will move in Sunday, Mr. Gollob said, with the help of eight members of the new Centennial Boys' Club. A moving truck will be loaned by Jubilee Transfer.

Other callers included a man

JUVENILE AGE DROP OPPOSED

Reduction of the juvenile age from 18 to 16 years was opposed by the B.C. Corrections Association in a brief to the legislative committee on juvenile delinquency today.

Collin Farmer, spokesman for the group and senior treatment officer at Oakalla jail, said police forces had repeatedly urged reducing the age because 16 and 17-year-olds did not respond to juvenile treatment methods and needed "sterner punishment."

The association opposed the change because, among other things, there is no real evidence the 16-17 age group is responsible for an increase in violent crimes; the 17-year-olds were just as much involved, and where the juvenile age has been lowered in other provinces it has not stemmed the tide of delinquency.

Sentence Cut Allowing Men To Seek Work

A pair of Victoria men were given reduced jail terms in city police court today so they would have the opportunity to work this summer.

Sentenced to four months each on charges of obtaining money by false pretences were Douglas E. Carlson, 717 Pandora and Leon Nott, 290 Burnside East.

Nott was given a concurrent sentence of four months for possession of stolen property. Police said Carlson purchased a $7.30 shirt at Hudson's Bay Co., gave the sales slip to Nott and a few minutes later exchanged the shirt and got the money back.

TRIED REFUND Nott then took another shirt, not the property of the store, with the sales slip and attempted to refund it for $7.30, but was caught.

Nott was found in possession of a book titled "The Art of Beatrix Potter," reported stolen from Marionette Book Shop, 1019 Douglas, Feb. 18. It was valued at $18.50.

Both men pleaded guilty to the charges. Magistrate H. C. Hall said, "Each of you should get out and do something this summer. Getting money the easy way is the hard way."

He said he had intended to sentence them to six months in jail. To Nott he added, "Let me see you get out and do some work for a change."

B.C. Labor Strife Exceeds Rest of Nation, Parley Told

Labor unrest and labor-employer conflict have been more widespread in British Columbia than in other provinces, Dr. Stuart Jamieson, department of economics, University of British Columbia, told the opening session of the B.C. Natural Resources Conference today.

The conference was opened by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood at the Empress Hotel.

Over 300 delegates representing industry and the government are attending the three-day meeting.

Speaking on a panel discussion on "The People of B.C. in Perspective," Dr. Jamieson said widespread labor unrest had occurred "despite the fact that in B.C. wages are generally higher, weekly hours of work shorter and fringe benefits more liberal than in other provinces."

He gave the following reasons for the labor unrest: 1. B.C. has remained a frontier region up to the present day and North American frontier regions have been breeding grounds of militant, and in the broad sense, radical labor movements and political parties.

BIASED "The disproportionately large number of elderly persons who are immigrants, coupled with B.C.'s low fertility rate relative to that of other provinces, is responsible for the age structure of B.C.'s population being definitely 'biased' toward older age groups," he stated.

According to Bernard R. Blisshen, department of anthropology, UBC, the so-called "opinion leaders" may be influential in the formation of decisions, but are not the men who have the power to affect the economic security of the people.

"The economically powerful may be able to impose economic sanctions, but they are not directly influenced in the political, associational or religious behavior of others," he said. He was speaking on social factors affecting consumer decisions.

Both Sides Quiet In Electricians' Threatened Strike

No further developments occurred today in the threatened strike by 120 electrical workers here against B.C. Electric and Hume & Rumble Ltd.

Jack Driscoll, business agent for Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said no date for strike action has been set.

The Victoria local, along with a Vancouver local representing 1,200 men, gave 48 hours' notice Monday that they may call a strike "at any time," to back their demands in a current wage dispute.

Machinists To Refuse Overtime Work

Endorsement of local machinists' decision to refuse overtime work in Victoria shipyards was sent to federal Labor Minister Michael Starr Tuesday by Victoria Labor Council.

Machinists, Fitters and Helpers, Local No. 3, recently gave notice to Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot that overtime would be refused except in case of emergency.

"We deem this action necessary owing to the large number of our members unemployed at this time," the notice said.

VLC endorsed the stand and urged all affiliated unions to take similar action to fight help alleviate the unemployment problem.

$1,278 GIVEN TO CHARITIES BY POWER COMMISSION STAFF

Cheques totalling $1,278 were mailed today to eight local charitable organizations by Miss Sheila Mann, secretary of the B.C. Power Commission Employees' Charitable Fund.

They brought to $2,058 the amount donated to charity in the past year by power commission head office employees, who choose the organizations and determine amounts donated to each.

Latest to benefit are the Salvation Army, $207; Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, $127; Red Cross, $136; Queen Alexandra Solarium, $150; Community Chest of Greater Victoria, $165; B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund, $144; Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island, $167, and the Canadian Cancer Society, $178.

Teen-Aged Driver Given Reprimand

City police gave a 16-year-old Victoria driver a severe reprimand Tuesday for not reporting immediately an accident in which a 4-year-old boy received a broken leg Monday at 4 p.m.

In satisfactory condition at Jubilee Hospital is Jimmy Golmer, 1531 Edgeware, who was taken in with jaw and face lacerations and a broken right leg after being run over by the car.

Police were told by the 16-year-old Tuesday he had pulled away from a parked position on Edgeware without noticing the boy playing in front of his car. A friend took the tot to hospital and his parents were notified.

Albert Kennedy, 6, of 2403 Douglas, was taken to Jubilee and is in satisfactory condition with bruises and abrasions to knee, face, head and one arm, received when he was in collision with a car at Bay and Douglas Tuesday at 4.12 p.m.

Driver was identified as Kenneth A. McMillan, 1939 Brighton, who was driving west on Bay when, according to witnesses, the boy ran from between parked cars.

Remo Guolo, 23, Royal Olympic Hotel, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a forehead abrasion and Diane Michellin, 23, of 2969 Albina, for abrasions received in a three-car collision at Gorge and Harriet at 10.30 p.m. Tuesday.

Guolo was driver of one car, Ronald Jackson, 39 Gorge West, driver of another car, Charles Bartram, 1170 Esquimalt, owner of a parked car struck by Guolo's vehicle.

Mike's Sweet Reason

"Are Victoria political meetings always like this?"

This was the question tossed at a group backstage at the Royal Theatre, Tuesday night, by Norman DePoe, who is covering the Pearson tour for CBC radio and television.

We all knew what Norman meant. The meeting was so orderly, so well-mannered, so restrained, it seemed more like a night session in Adult Education than a political meeting.

Almost completely missing was the electricity, the antagonism, the cock-pit aura of a Bennett performance, in which the chief protagonist seems to say: "Pour it on—I love it!"

In short, last night's meeting seemed more of an appeal to reason rather than emotion.

All of which is wonderful—but does it win elections? Mr. Pearson, it seemed to me, was over the head of the average voter on the complexities of international trade. His point that it's impossible to "divert" $625 millions from the U.S. to Britain overnight is perfectly valid—but the sums are astronomical, the implications too involved for the casual listener.

Similarly, his comments about trade within the NATO orbit. All of it was perfectly sound—but who can forget the survey which showed that 75 per cent of 2,000 Americans interviewed didn't even know what the initials stood for?

Mike was at his best in the question period. Here his easy informality, his patent, honesty, shone through and the audience got a peek at his greatness.

When Bill Scott asked a question about trade with Communist China, Pearson gave a categorical 12-3-4 reply which drew applause from the audience. When a young man asked why coffee and cocoa "cost 40 cents a pound more" in Canada than the United States, Pearson said that he doubted the discrepancy in figures but didn't know enough about trade in the products to offer an answer.

He was at his finest, however, when an aged and faltering gentleman arose and asked a wandering question about "the flower of our youth in jails, hospitals . . . cannon fodder for wars . . . ploughed under . . ." People sitting nearby couldn't follow his line.

Pearson listened, an expression of grave compassion on his face. And then, quietly, he said:

"If I understand your question, sir—the annihilation of youth—I don't know the answer. I sincerely wish I did."

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Would you please tell me why the channel numbers on television set begin at 2 and end with 13, rather than begin at and end at 12? D.W.C.

A.—There used to be a channel 1, about 10 years ago, but it was dropped as it interfered with the rest of the TV spectrum. But the numbers are just for reference to the viewer, so you could call them anything you wish, providing this doesn't confuse you off the programs.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Look! Absorbent Tea Towels Have Gone Modernistic!

By PENNY SAVER

There's always something new coming out to brighten dull household chores! The latest is tea towels, bright colored and highly absorbent and in modernistic and semi-modernistic designs. I've fallen for the gloriously colorful maps of the world. With them you might interest the children in a geography lesson while they help dry dinner dishes! Each towel costs $1. And that's a bargain!

The 1958 calendar is printed on another set of tea towels priced at $1.00. They're colorful, and come in a variety of paintbox shades.

There are also towels with the symbolic designs of the four seasons: spring, summer, autumn and winter... which Victoria is not getting!

Friends on your mailing list with birthdays coming up soon will be pleased and surprised to receive tatted lace handkerchiefs on the anniversary. These hankies are made in Ireland and are selling at 60 cents each. An easy-to-send present for a friend living far away.

Giving an extra special luncheon or bridge party? You'll be delighted when you see the leaf green linen sets. Cloth and napkins are each centred with colored leaves in a modern design.

It's an attractive package to present as a shower or wedding gift, or to buy yourself! Priced at $4.95. There are three different colors for you to choose from, besides the green.

Try making up your own towels. That way you can choose the size you like and the color. Purchase several yards of toweling and sew bath, hand or guest towels to your heart's content. A yard costs only $1.25.

If she has a gay, sparkling nature, the color-splashed hankies I found today would be just right to give her! If she is a dog lover, there are dandy hankies with pictures of dogs on the corners. Price range starts at 35 cents.

On your way to town? Then—give me a call at 2-3131. I'll tell you where to shop—and save!

On Etiquette

MOTHER'S DILEMMA

Two weeks ago I mailed invitations to five girls for a luncheon and theatre party to celebrate my daughter's 13th birthday. With only three days to go, not one has a cknowledged. What should I do? I hate to seem rude by telephoning the mothers, but as I have purchased six reserved seats, I naturally want to know if they can come. If any of the girls cannot accept, would it be all right to ask a substitute; and, if so, should I tell the girl what has happened so she will understand why the last-minute invitation?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

Phone each of the mothers. It is time other faces were red instead of yours. Perhaps your calls might remind them that they have ill-mannered and thoughtless daughters. Just say that you mailed Sally an invitation for luncheon and theatre and feel that you cannot wait any longer for an answer. At this point, you cannot grant any extension of time, even if they ask for it. You should have had your acceptances or regrets long ago and this delay is inexcusable. The girls should know better even if they have had little or no training in the proper ways. Invitations should be acknowledged immediately, especially in a case like yours where luncheon and theatre are involved. You would have to use your own judgment about admitting to a substitute what has happened. If your daughter's friends know about the party, a substitute might be offended if she knows she is asked to replace Sally Smith. That being the case, you might as well put your cards on the table by explaining the situation to the mother.

RCAF Press Relations Job For Tall, Striking Blonde

TORONTO (CP)—A tall, striking blonde lends a touch of glamor to a job heretofore held only by men in Canada's air force.

She is Flying Officer Alice Margaret Outram of Ottawa, "Amo" to her friends. At 22 she is the first woman press relations officer employed in the general information branch of the RCAF. Recently she was posted to Toronto from Ottawa. "Press liaison work is a full-time job," said FO Outram, who is on the spot daily at RCAF headquarters here ready to give facts about the air force, whether it be air defence, transport or DEW line information.

READY WITH ANSWERS

She answers all queries. Some are from wives who haven't received their husband's monthly cheques. Others might ask about physiotherapists at Goose Bay or about trailer camps at a camp in Alberta.

"Life in the women's division of the air force is ideal," she said in an interview. She recommends young girls and women to enlist and join some 2,600 others already in the service.

"It offers practical experience, sound training and wonderful opportunities to travel," said the blue-eyed flying officer.

Another aspect of the WD which appeals to many who are interested in furthering their education, is that the RCAF will put students through their last year of college in return for a few years' service after graduation.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Give Some Thought To Picking Physician

In a recent public affairs pamphlet, a health educator and writer says, "Much needed loss of life and health can be avoided if we devote at least as much attention to the upkeep of health as we do to our cars and homes."

The educator makes many practical suggestions concerning the welfare and safety of the family. There is nothing more important than the selection of your family physician.

Yet many women give more thought to the selection of a piece of furniture. I think many folks just do not know how to go about selecting a physician.

The following are some of the warnings:

1. Don't wait until illness strikes to find your doctor.
2. Don't pick a doctor just because he is nearby, or the one your neighbor or friend swears by.
3. Don't ask the postman or your neighborhood druggist to recommend one and don't select one yourself at random from a telephone directory.
4. Don't choose Doctor X because you have heard that his fee is high and therefore he must be good, or Doctor Y because his fee is low and you will save money.

5. Finally, DON'T pick the doctor with the winning personality whom you met at a party. Any one of these may happen to be qualified, but there is a risk that the doctor chosen so casually may not be reputable professionally.

One way to select a physician is to locate a good hospital in your town. Ask it to give you the names of several doctors. For this you telephone the office of the medical director or the superintendent.

Another way to choose a doctor is to write or telephone the doctor's directory and ask for the names of physicians. A competent family physician will know when you need to see a specialist, or may suggest one for your peace of mind. He also will help you locate one.

In Concert

An afternoon concert was presented at the Aged Women's Home, McLure Street, last Saturday by Grace Beswick, violinist; Amy Walton, soprano; Muriel Filby and Madeleine Till, pianists.

Victoria Past Noble Grands' Club, Odd Fellows Hall, Douglas Street, Thursday at 8 p.m. Birthday banquet at 6:30 p.m. Reservations, phone Mrs. A. Gonnason, 3-6536.

Charles Outram, she has been brought up in the world of air planes.

While in her third year of journalism at Carleton College, Ottawa, she joined the summer RCAF university training reserve in the public relations department.

Returning to Carleton to graduate the following year FO Outram decided "then and there" the newspaper world was out and public relations work would be her choice.

Right now she is busy furnishing her apartment and having plenty of fun picking out furniture, draperies and color combinations.

It's her first time away from home apart from a year at school, in Scotland. Boarding school, life is fascinating, she said, especially in Scotland with no central heating, rising at 6 a.m. to face a cold bath.

"We all got quite muscle bound playing hockey," she added. And listen to this: FO Outram owns between 80 and 90 pairs of shoes—thus another nickname "Boots." She wears the soles out inside of three weeks. This she blames on her height which is 5 feet, 10 inches. Amo prefers "5 feet, 8 12-17 inches"—it sounds better.

Trace Sad Hairdo to Wrong Care

If your last permanent was disappointing to you, there's probably a very good reason why. Maybe more than one reason. Most women complain of frizz.

Frizz can be caused by an expert operator but it can also be caused by wearing a hat immediately upon leaving the beauty shop or by running a damp comb through the hair. And there is something you can do about it.

The first time you shampoo your hair, add a cream rinse to the second or third rinse water. This will work wonders in removing frizz. A good stiff brush will help, too.

If your problem was a weak, limp permanent, it may be that you brushed your hair while it was still damp after a shampoo. This is great for removing the curl. Wait until your hair is thoroughly dry before you brush it.

And be sure that your hair is properly cut and shaped before you have your next permanent. Every trace of the old wave should be banished.

Someone once said that it would be a great boon to humanity if the thought process could be switched off at night.

just like an electric light. This is only too true since our thoughts, chiefly in the form of worry, are usually what keep us awake at night.

But since we can't switch them off, we must learn to do the next best thing if we're to get a full night's sleep with health and good looks as the result. And the next best thing is absolutely refusing to turn over in your mind the problem that's bothering you.

This doesn't sound easy and it isn't, but practice does help. Tell yourself that there's nothing you can do about it at the moment and that you'll tackle it again in the morning when you're fresh. You'd be surprised how that helps. When you get this trick nearly perfect, you won't be troubled by insomnia.

Care of hands and face is no sometime thing. It requires constant attention.

How, then, can a busy mother find time to "keep after" her complexion and skin care while chasing a parcel of youngsters and pets in addition to her home-making duties?

The secret: establish a beauty care centre in the kitchen and laundry.

All you need in each place is a shelf out of reach of small fry and these basic ingredients: a good soap, lotion and hand cream.

Their use will help to keep your beauty routine from getting out of hand.

Barnstorming Tour of Near and Far East Gives Soprano New Names

NEW YORK (UP) — Eleanor Steber may be known as a prima donna at the "Met." But to opera lovers in Saigon, Vietnam, she is a "primitive donna," and to fans in Hong Kong she is "Number One sing song girl, U.S.A."

Miss Steber, in an interview at her apartment in Manhattan, laughingly recalled some of the titles she acquired in her recent "barnstorming" tour of the Near and Far East. The tour was sponsored by the U.S. State Department and ANTA (American National Theatre and Academy).

She also acquired a husband, "In Anakara," she said, "they dubbed me the 'good sport singer' because I did a concert with a fever of 102. But I like the 'primitive donna' best . . . it sort of expresses how I feel about opera stars who throw tantrums."

Soprano Steber didn't mention the name of another soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Co., Maria Callas, who is pretty renowned for her off-stage outbursts.

"Temperament is of the spirit," she commented. "Not something you show. If I had been a prima donna . . . someone who has to be carried around on a cotton batting . . . I wouldn't have survived the concert tour."

In three and one-half months she travelled 100,000 air miles, gave 33 concerts in 17 countries, to audiences totalling 50,000 persons.

The statuesque blonde singer, one of the Met's sturdiest characters, got used to riding to concert halls in rickshaws, to singing in competition with huge fans used to cool auditoriums, and once in Baghdad competed with the noise from a Russian circus playing nearby.

"And here in the United States," she laughed, "I've been known to ask that draperies be removed from the stage because they interfered with the acoustics."

It was at a party for her in Saigon that La Steber met a handsome army major named Gordon Andrews. Andrews was stationed there as information officer of a military assistance advisory group.

Y-Teens in Conference

The 22nd midwinter conference of Y-Teens was held in New Westminster last weekend with Y-Teens from the lower mainland, Vancouver Island, Fraser Valley, the Kootenays and the Okanagan Valley present.

Program consisted of talks and discussion groups headed by well-known educators and community leaders about career opportunities, and the promotion of interest in current affairs to assure world peace through a politically informed public.

A "Peace Statement" covered the topics of immigration and citizenship and their effect on Canadian life and economy, and the use and function of the United Nations. Conference arrangements were shared and carried out by 37 clubs in the province under

VICKS VAPO-NOL

Interested in Her Husband's Work

Mrs. Lester Pearson, wife of the Liberal party leader, is travelling with her husband during the March 31 election campaign.

She flew with him from eastern Canada last Sunday for his tour of the west and prior to that she was with him on his recent trips to Toronto and Hamilton.

This attractive, brown-haired first lady in Liberal circles is interested in people, makes friends easily and fits quietly into any picture that has to do with her husband's work.

On this trip west she is fighting a cold and the rush and the bustle of "campaigning" has not made it any better.

Her main concern, however, is not the cold, but her husband.

"It's intensive work, going from place to place, making speeches every 24 hours," she says.

To ease this strain she has brought along a good supply of vitamins.

Travelling most of the time by air, Marjory Pearson nevertheless, manages to look smart and attractive wherever she goes.

Yesterday evening at the Royal Theatre she was wearing a two-piece suit in sepia and cinnamon brown plaid. A fine wool grey sweater and grey gloves added a note of high style. Her small off-face straw hat was cinnamon brown trimmed with a deeper brown bow and her jewelry was in old gold tone.

She topped her ensemble with a fur coat.

Marjory Pearson met her husband at the University of Toronto when she was a student and he a history professor.

"Even then he was wearing bow ties," she remembers.

The bow ties have since become "Mike's trademark."

Mrs. Pearson does most of her husband's shopping, chooses his bow ties, and cooks most of their meals when he's at home.

MISS PERRON A VETERAN

An interested onlooker in the press box at the Royal Theatre during the Liberal meeting, Tuesday evening, was attractive Miss Annette Perron—petite, blonde and very chic.

Miss Perron is Lester Pearson's secretary.

The rush and bustle of election campaigning is not new to her. In fact, this is the third time she has been involved in the excitement.

You see, Miss Perron was formerly secretary to Hon. Louis St. Laurent and she accompanied him on tours across Canada during two election campaigns.

Citrus Fruits Add Zest to Dinner Table

Fresh fruits fixed in different ways enhance meals in more ways than one.

Take, for example, those golden members of the citrus clan—lemons, lemons and grapefruit. They are not only brightly eye and appetite appealing but they are true nutritional nuggets—loaded with that so important vitamin C, and containing other vitamins as well as health-giving minerals and nutrients.

The homemaker in experimenting mood—whether it's for a party, or just to bring party sparkle to the family dinner table—will explore the possibilities of giving these fresh fruits unusual and exciting presentations. Always delicious in their fresh juice or in eaten-out-of-hand roles, they take on provocative new flavor nuances when cooked, either singly or in combination.

Start a brunch with a broiled grapefruit and orange cup, sprinkled with brown sugar, dashed with a mere whiff of aromatic bitters, then broiled lightly under the broiler. Sit back and watch the expressions of beatific satisfaction on the eater's faces.

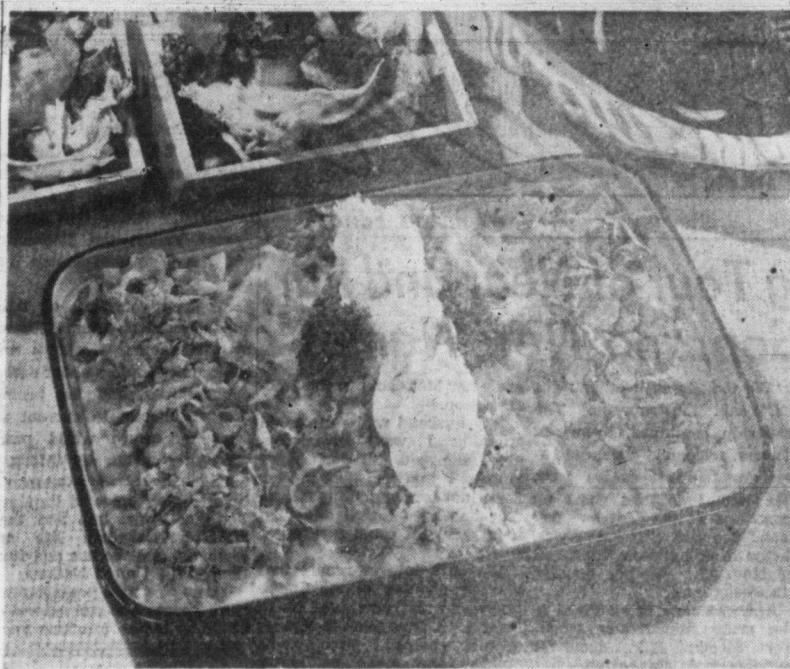

FRESH ORANGE AND GRAPEFRUIT CONSERVE

Three medium fresh grapefruit, 6 medium fresh oranges, 2 medium fresh lemons. Water to cover fruit. Four cups cold water, 10 cups sugar, 1½ cups chopped pecans, 5 teaspoons pure vanilla extract.

Wash grapefruit, oranges and lemons. Cut into thin slices, remove seeds and cut each slice into ½-inch strips. Measure grapefruit and oranges (there should be about 7 cups grapefruit and 5½ cups oranges). Place fruit in an 8-quart kettle or saucepan. Add water to cover. Bring to boiling point. Drain. Repeat 2 more times. Add the 4 cups water and cook, uncovered, 1½ hours or until fruit is tender. Measure the fruit (there should be about 10 cups). Add sugar, 1 cup for each cup of cooked fruit. Cook over medium heat until thick about 1½ hours, stirring frequently. Add the chopped nuts and pure vanilla extract. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Seal at once. Yield: 12 ½-pint jars.

BROILED GRAPEFRUIT AND ORANGE CUP

Cut grapefruit in half crosswise, remove seeds and loosen segments from sections and from around edge of rind. Section oranges and slip 4 or 5 orange sections between grapefruit sections, radiating them from the centre in flower fashion. Dot each with ½ teaspoon butter or margarine and 1 teaspoon brown sugar. Sprinkle a dash aromatic bitters over each. Place under broiler until edges have browned lightly. Decorate centres with fresh mint leaves and a maraschino cherry. Yield: 6 servings.

Tasteful and nutritious, this fish dish will please not only the family but the visitor who "just happens along" at dinnertime.

A Good Choice for Lenten Meals

A good, inexpensive family entrée that will keep Lenten appetites on the upgrade, is this crunchy salmon scallop which is simply served with a mixed salad and pickled beets with onion rings.

Easy to make, the scallop combines canned salmon, onions, green pepper and a cream sauce with a crisp topping of buttered corn flakes crumbs. Just before serving, garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs.

CRUNCHY SALMON SCALLOP

Two tablespoons finely chopped onions, ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups milk, 2

Health Salad

Ingredients: Two-thirds cup uncooked white rice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups water, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ½ cup creamy French dressing, 1 cup thinly sliced carrots, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 cup thinly sliced celery, 1 cup cut up fresh or canned tomatoes, salad greens, French dressing or mayonnaise, as desired.

Method: Put the rice, salt and water in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes. While the rice is still hot, stir in the onion and French dressing. Cool the rice. Cover and store in the refrigerator. Just before serving, stir in the carrots, cabbage, celery and tomatoes. Serve on salad greens with additional French dressing or mayonnaise as desired. This recipe makes 8 to 10 servings.

Body Out of Style; Takes Form Of Dress Says Designer Cardin

PARIS (AP)—Paris introduced the "scythe" and "spoon" lines recently at the Spring fashion openings. They're both the sack shape from last year—only more so.

The scythe line, as introduced by Pierre Cardin, is a sort of hump-backed sack. The spoon shape, in Jacques Heim's show, is a flat, straight-hanging front and a full-bloused back. Heim's skirts, 18 inches from the floor, bare half the kneecap.

"The body," announced Cardin "is out of style. Nowadays, it takes the form of the dress."

And the dress, in the Cardin salons, just lets go behind. Often fullness is caught in again at the hem for a bloomer girl effect. His hemlines flirt with the kneecap—now you see them, now you don't.

FOR THAT COOL DIP

One Cardin eye-popper was a long-legged gold lame bathing suit, for midnight bathing when the water might be cold.

Long-sleeved jackets are sometimes gathered into a band or belt just under the derriere, and others have a split tail. But there are lots of short unfitted suit jackets, too.

In general, three opening-day shows—Patou, Heim and Cardin—have shown that the sack is here to stay awhile. There are modifications, and even some fitted sheaths and belted models, but the loose middle still led.

Skirts so far are uniformly short. Patou put them barely below the knee. Leading colors have been beige, off-white, blue, orange, to pink and red. There even were some polka dots and stripes, but mainly in linings, blouses or hats.

Cardin showed some shocking combinations: pink with red, purple with blue, orange with red. His new materials included thick-printed mohair or angora woolen, a sort of chain mail gold jersey, and a lacquered chintzy print for a raincoat.

Some Cardin cocktail time sacks are bare to the waist in the back, with a cowl drape falling from shoulder to hipline and a bow on the bottom.

Heim's short kick-pleat skirts leave plenty of room for doing the Charleston or rock 'n' roll. His fashions, he boasts, "are super-charged with sexy animation."

But to keep things from getting out of hand, he offers "a little virginity," in the form of long, billowing skirts for evening.

26 Victoria Daily Times
WEDNESDAY, FEB. 26, 1958

Instead of no waistline at all, Heim's sacks are encircled by a wide, stiffened cummerbund about six sizes too big that touches nowhere.

Vienna Rice Ramekins—Mix chopped canned Vienna sausages with hot cooked rice. Stir a little hot milk into process cheese spread and combine with the rice and sausages. Place in well greased individual baking dishes and broil about 6 minutes, until bubbly and browned. Serve garnished with parsley.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer; will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition), and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Wayne Hower, aged 14, of Allentown, Penn., for his question:

How Does Angora Grow?

Maybe you have a pair of cultivated in Turkey since ancient days. Angora mittens that look like balls of fur. Maybe you have a sweater of wool yarn mixed with angora. Five to 25 per cent angora with wool makes a luxury fabric. The long, silken angora threads grow on the angora rabbit. This cuddly bunny is kept for his wonderful coat. A big fellow may yield 12 ounces of wool each year. The splendid fur grows back year after year. The lovely threads are washed, combed and spun into yarn. Sometimes the yarn is pure angora, sometimes a mixture of wool and angora. Some may be pressed into felt. Men's hats are made mostly from rabbit fur. And angora fur makes the best felt of all. The word angora has an interesting history and angora fabric was not always made from rabbit fur. Angora is an old name for Ankara, the capital of Turkey. The angora goat is a prize animal who has been

Goats Clipped Once Each Year

Mrs. Angora has a coat as fine as her husband's. Her long slim horns bend back and down in simple arches. The splendid coat is clipped once each year. For a long time, their Turkish owners refused to sell their mohair goats for any price. All the world's mohair was grown in Turkey. But finally some of the prize goats found their way to Australia, South Africa and the United States. Those in South Africa were soon producing more hair than their relatives in Turkey. Angora goats have made themselves at home in America. Most of the mohair is produced in Texas where the animals seem to be very happy. There are also herds in Oregon.

Czechs to Build Atom Stations

BUT WOMEN LOVE THEM

Men Shy About Street Photos

By TONY DICKASON

You may be as ugly as a worried oyster, but to Ted Brooke you'll still be "a picture." He's taken a conservative 4,000,000 photographs in his 22 years behind a camera, and has 300,000 on file clicked on the street in Victoria the past three years.

Ted is a smiling man you see most fine days downtown who "shoots" as you amble past the lens.

"Hope you like it," he says diplomatically, passing out a card with a serial number which lists the action photo just taken.

Street photography, by the way, didn't originate on the street, but on the beaches of sunny Australia back in 1934.

He moved to crowded Japan and thence to picture-happy America.

Every conceivable type of person buys street pictures. One recent purchaser was an evangelist from Detroit. He ordered 300.

There are no mean or nasty customers," Ted emphasizes.

Background is important to picture quality. The tripod and camera is generally set up in front of a bank in preference to the jail.

Dull or wet weather picture-taking is poor for business, even though muted skies are complimentary to personal features. People don't fancy shots of themselves in ill-fitting macs, wrestling umbrellas.

Entertainment will start each evening at 8 and is open to all men and women between the ages of 18 and 40 who register prior to the first night.

Passive Resistance Snarls Rail Traffic

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Train passengers carrying out Gandhi-style passive resistance paralyzed service to north, central and east Ceylon today.

Because several third-class passengers were arrested for travelling second class, other passengers squatted on the tracks at Ganemulla, 20 miles from Colombo, and said they would not quit until the government abolishes class divisions on the railways.

DR. PETTINGILL

Naturalist Shows Movies Here Saturday

A naturalist, who was hired by Walt Disney to film penguins in the Falkland Islands in color for a nature movie to be released later this year, will visit Victoria this weekend.

Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill, Jr., of Wayne, Maine, will show Movies at the Oak Bay Junior High School on Saturday at 8 p.m.

The lecture-meeting is sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society.

A graduate from Bowdoin College, Dr. Pettingill received his PhD degree in ornithology from Cornell University.

For two years he was engaged in the whooping crane research project ranging from Texas to northern Canada. He was also co-leader of a Cornell University-Carleton College ornithological expedition in Mexico.

RINK NEEDED

City Skaters Long on Talent, Short on Ice

By AB KENT

Victoria claims one of Canada's largest figure skating clubs, yet its members haven't a patch of ice to call their own.

For 10 years Victoria Figure Skating Club has borrowed ice surface facilities from Memorial Arena, Victoria Curling Club and—for its summer classes—rinks in the B.C. interior.

The club boasts 800 members and produces some of Canada's most promising skating talent.

Promote, however, is about all they have the chance to show.

According to Lee Rutley, an enthusiastic parent of one such skater, unavailability of skating surface makes it hard for the good young skaters to reach their prime.

At the threshold of that time is 16-year-old Marlene Rutley, who with Doug Doidge, 20, skated off with second place out of 10 in silver dance couples of Western Canada Figure Skating Championships in Vancouver Feb. 13-15.

They placed third out of nine pairs in the waltz competition.

A pair of youngsters, also from Victoria Figure Skating Club—Len Simpson, 11, and Lorraine Hind, 12—took second spot in the bronze medal dance.

Judges were surprised at the progress shown at the various levels of competition since 1957.

ABILITY HERE
"If kids can go over to Vancouver and place like that, it shows the ability is here," said Rutley.

"All this club is interested in is getting a sheet of ice. . . . Once we get a rink we're home free."

Minimum cost of providing a building and year-round ice-making facilities has been estimated at $100,000.

Still, this figure is considerably less than the $500,000 in shares now on the market for a new skating club in Vancouver, where success of the Capilano Club has been proven, Rutley points out.

The local club lacks only senior skaters, who must take advantage of inconvenient ice times in order to get in daily practice. Few find themselves able, for example, to get their minimum three hours a day practice over the dinner hour.

If it were not for things like that "We could have 1,000 members, easily," Rutley forecasts.

He sees the eventual development of family-type clubs, like an expanded Capilano Club, which will be attractive to all members of a family.

As in the United States, where it is now a trend to build father's golf club with swimming, tennis, bowling and other features to make it a place for the whole family.

HELPS TO BE LIBERAL

Patronage Still Exists, Says MLA

Irvine Corbett, Social Credit member for Yale, suggested in the legislature Tuesday that the main reason the electors voted out the Liberals in 1952 was because of "political patronage."

"However," he went on, "I do not think we have gotten away from some of the political patronage that was prevalent at that time."

"I have observed in various places throughout the province that, if you happen to be a Social Creditor, it makes it very difficult to get a job. But if you are a Liberal the job seems to come somewhat easier."

"I think it is about time this was stopped."

OVERDUE
Speaking in the budget debate, Mr. Corbett said a member of the CCF opposition had suggested cuts in the civil service were intended to make government employees "toe the mark."

"I gathered the member considered it not a good idea to have the civil servants toe the mark. Personally, I feel it is long past time that some of the civil servants were made to toe the line."

"I am not suggesting for one minute that all civil servants are not doing their duty. But I have observed some government employees just putting in the time rather than making use of it."

"Generally speaking, we can be proud of our civil servants and, when we find those who are not doing their job, they should be fired forthwith."

Mr. Corbett said he gathered the CCF were down on any industry that made a profit.

"They forget it is only when our industries are profitable that we have prosperous times and that the laboring force is kept employed."

NANAIMO (CP)—A wood chipping company was ordered Tuesday to cut five hours from its working day when a city anti-noise bylaw was upheld in court here.

G. W. Dorman Pulp and Chip Company was restricted 10-hour daily operation, effective in a week after a charge of disturbing the peace was laid against the firm.

Nearby residents testified the plant made a "horrible, squeaking noise."

Alberni Seek Unrestricted Use of Road

PORT ALBERNI—City councils of Alberni and Port Alberni will back John Squire, M.L.A., in his effort to have the Alberni-Tofino road open to the public at all times.

The road, now under construction under terms of forest management licences, will be open for public travel when not being used by logging companies for hauling logs.

Both councils plan to write Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi on the matter, and the Port Alberni council will appeal to Premier Bennett to have the road unrestricted to the public.

Growing Demand for Rabbit Meat Keeps 75 Island Breeders Busy

By TONY DICKASON
Demand for rabbit meat here is increasing notably with suppliers far behind customer requirements.

Fred Dickenson, Pender Island, operator of the largest rabbitry on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, says the demand is "terrific."

"I sell about 35 rabbits a week, and if I had the facilities could get rid of another 500," he states.

He has close to 400 rabbits, and supplies larger stores in Victoria.

Until quite recently, frozen rabbit meat was imported from Australia for sale here as local rabbitries couldn't keep up with the public appetite.

DISEASE STRIKES
However, disease has struck the Australian rabbit—intentionally introduced—and meat is not edible.

This puts the onus of supply on the 75 breeders on the Island and Gulf Islands. With the exception of Mr. Dickenson, all are part-time breeders who average about 30 rabbits each.

This isn't enough. Not only is rabbit sought for eating, there is also a big demand for the rodent's hide for use as fur, and even front paws as "good luck" charms adorning key rings. Ninety per cent of cheaper fur is rabbit, sold under such names as "Siberian Squirrel." Rabbit sells for around 65 cents a pound across meat counters.

The fryers range around four pounds live weight and from two to three pounds, dressed. It is young meat—two to three months.

Rabbit eaters are strong advocates of the meat, pointing out rabbit is much more tender than chicken, and recommended by doctors because of the high degree of digestible nutrients—83 per cent compared with 55 per cent in beef and 65 per cent in mutton.

HIGH PROTEIN
It's the fat rabbit that's raised for the table—the heavy types such as Californian, Champagne and Rex. Most are raised on pellets high in protein value.

Gordon Ash, 3248 Glasgow, registrar for the American Rabbit Breeders' Association, says he is tired of hearing people say rabbits don't need water.

"Water is more essential than food, though some people believe it's not necessary. This is wrong."

Average litter numbers eight, and does can be bred four times a year. There is no difference between male and female rabbit meat. Five million pounds are sold annually in the United States! And in California it

IWA Protests 'Age Limit' Layoff Policy

DUNCAN (CP)—Local 180 of the International Woodworkers of America is seeking legislation which will allow workers to continue their vocation after they reach "a certain age limit."

The local Tuesday sent copies of the petition to the leaders of all parties in the legislature, and to Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

The union claims many companies operating in B.C. are arbitrarily laying off employees when they reach "a certain age" resulting in thousands being laid off, even though many of them wish to continue working.

The petition asks that legislation be enacted at this session that will allow members to work, if they are physically able, after they have attained retiring age.

Resort Owners File Protest On Sign Order

QUALICUM BEACH—Village commission here has voted to spend $8,500 on the centennial project of boulevards and shade trees along municipal roads.

A delegation of resort owners launched a protest against a ruling requiring removal of all signs in the village that do not comply with village bylaws. Deadline for moving the signs has been extended to April 23, and in the meantime the resort owners will prepare a petition suggesting amendments to the ruling.

Parish School Project Work To Start Soon

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Work will get under way immediately on the first part of a project which includes a new 12-classroom school and accommodation for teaching sisters of Smith Memorial School.

A spokesman for Holy Family parish said the school and convent will be built for some $200,000 with most of the labor being done on a volunteer basis.

is the second largest meat industry, after beef producing.

There are a few rabbits kept as pets, but these, mostly property of children, rarely wind up in the cooking pot.

Rabbits are an interesting study. They squeal like a child when frightened; don't sneeze or throw-up. They do not like being wet. A moist rabbit nose means a healthy rabbit. They stomp their hind feet to signal alarm.

Rabbit recipes are numerous. There is rabbit pie, rabbit sandwich spread, rabbit stew, Pender Island casserole, rabbit salad, sweet and sour rabbit, hassenpfeffer, and rabbit creole, to name a few. There is a proven method of attracting rabbits: Hide in a cabbage patch and make a noise like a carrot!

RHEUMATIC—ARTHRITIC PAIN SUFFERERS

Try Templeton's T-B-C's for instant relief from painful aches, back-ache, or lameness, the misery of rheumatism or arthritis. Mrs. A. W. Woods, 3447 Esplanade, Vancouver, B.C. says "I use T-B-C's when I have an attack of rheumatic pain. Over and over again I have had the relief I've longed for. I can never without T-B-C's in the house, and tell all my friends I have never found anything as satisfactory as T-B-C's for bringing quick relief from pain." Why don't you try Templeton's T-B-C's—75¢ and $1.50 at all drug counters.

British Columbia's timber cut estimate in 1957 was 944,000,000 cubic feet, down 10 per cent from 1956 and 5 per cent from 1955, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston told the Legislature Tuesday.

"This makes 1957 the third highest year in our history," the minister said.

He added that 70 per cent of the cut was sold on the export market which is becoming increasingly more competitive.

"In some parts of the world our technical knowledge has assisted in creating production which fill markets which had long been considered our own."

PRICES DOWN

"Our local industry must be constantly aware of the fact that it cannot produce dear and sell cheap."

Mr. Williston said lumber prices have been in decline since the middle of 1956 when tight money policies were applied which immediately hit the building industry.

During 1957, log prices fell between $12 and $22 below the 1956 high.

About 600,000,000 cubic feet of timber were sold by competitive auction. More than 90 per cent of the volume went at upset prices.

The average stumpage rate in 1957 was about $4 per hundred cubic feet. This was down from $6.92 the previous year.

SLIDING SCALE

"Most of the timber is now sold on the basis of a sliding scale," Mr. Williston said. "This means that there is a reappraisal of the stumpage rate when the market changes 15 per cent from the rate applied when the sale was purchased."

"On the coast the change is based on average log prices, while in the Interior it is based on dressed lumber prices."

"A correct price figure should reflect the total sale of the product. This is difficult to obtain in a slow market period when low grade logs and lumber both tend to accumulate rather than be sold."

"There have been more than 10,000 stumpage adjustments downward during the year. These adjustments average between 35 and 40 per cent."

U.K. TRAFFIC HAZARD: BOAT SAILS INTO BUS

DEAL, Eng. (Reuters)—A boat and a bus collided here Tuesday night. A large motorboat, the Skylark, was hauled up on the promenade of the sea-front for safety.

It was hurled across the road by heavy winds into the side of a passing bus. No passengers were hurt.

RESEARCHER'S OPINION

Merger Financing Can't Be Estimated

It would be impossible for a royal commission to outline in advance the financial implications of amalgamation of Greater Victoria, a municipal researcher said here Tuesday.

Director of the Bureau of Municipal Research and the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, Eric Hardy said in an interview, however:

"You're not trying anything that is untried."

"The thing you need is evidence of sufficient favorable public opinion to ensure the change will be backed—then I'm convinced it will work."

"If a royal commission serves the purpose of discovering public opinion, it's useful."

"But I thoroughly agree, one cannot set down in advance the financial implications."

He said growth and economic change could alter any findings by an advance investigation.

He felt successful amalgamation would depend on government support.

"You want the province to be convinced of its responsibility to help in putting through legislation and financial backing for a difficult period of adjustment."

Mr. Hardy, addressing a luncheon at the Empress Hotel, attended by Kiwanis Club and Junior and Senior Chamber of Commerce members, referred to the 75-page report on Greater Victoria amalgamation which was compiled by his organization two years ago.

It recommended full amalgamation of Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, View Royal and the urban section of Saanich, south of Royal Oak, under a nine-man council. The province should be asked for added grants, the report said.

The speaker traced the growth of amalgamation thinking through legislation of the Ontario government and the metropolitan union of Greater Toronto.

Chamber of Commerce president Hugh Stephen, who introduced the speaker, said the problem of merging adjacent municipal governments "confronts every major settlement on the North American continent with varying degrees of urgency."

He added, in this area, although the junior and senior chambers had avoided taking a stand on the issue, "we cannot remain in a neutral corner much longer."

Forrest L. Shaw, who thanked the speaker, expressed the hope the provincial government would "step in and assist us."

The trade deficit with the U.S. in January dropped sharply to $58,200,000 from $127,100,000 a year ago. At the same time the export surplus with the United Kingdom—excess of exports over imports—eased to $21,900,000 from $28,100,000.

Trade Deficit Cut by Less U.S. Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's foreign trade deficit in January declined sharply by $44,000,000 from the corresponding month in 1957 due mainly to a steep decline in purchases from the United States, the bureau of statistics said today.

The month's deficit—excess of imports over exports—totalled $11,600,000, about one-fifth of the import surplus of $35,600,000 in January a year ago.

The bureau described its trade figures for January as preliminary and said reasons for the import decline are not yet apparent. Detailed export figures would be issued shortly but those for imports would not be available for several weeks.

'Real Progress' In Social Service

Premier Bennett's 1958 budget aimed at "providing a tonic for lagging production and at the same time maintaining services in a realistic manner." Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said in the legislature Tuesday.

"Most of the criticism has been directed against the mental health and jail services—and this can and has been answered in a straightforward manner."

The minister said he was proud of the government's social service record.

"From 1952 until the present it cannot be matched in any other similar jurisdiction. No one claims the job is complete or that the work has been perfect. All fair-minded persons acknowledge that real progress has been made."

Mr. Williston said the Opposition imagined it had forced the government to do something about the Woodlands School (for retarded children) but the government had proceeded according to plan.

"You haven't explained the reduction in staff," said Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East).

"There has been no such reduction," replied the minister. "This reduction does not measure out in terms of numbers."

'BOWS' PERSONAL WITH MIKE

The world's best-known bow tie wearer, Lester B. Pearson, stayed loyal to his symbol during his Victoria visit. But he laughingly denied at a news conference that the bow tie was being "used" as part of his campaign strategy. The large number of red bows worn at his Vancouver meeting "was just a spontaneous affection for the bow tie," he declared.

France Given Warning
On Use of U.S. Arms

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States has given France a blunt warning against using any more planes or weapons supplied under the military aid program on Tunisian targets, it was disclosed today.

At the same time Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D., Ark.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called for the withdrawal of the planes from France "if they can be."

The use of American-made planes in a bloody Feb. 8 attack on the Tunisian border town of Sakiet-Sidi-Youssef is expected to be brought up by the committee in hearings slated to start next month.

This government, informants said, has informed the French it does not agree with the Paris argument that American-built planes, used in the raid fell under terms of the Jan. 27, 1950, American-French arms aid agreement.

Under the agreement, France promised to devote American arms aid to no other purpose than NATO defence — unless some other agreement was reached in advance.

ALGERIA OPENS
NEW OFFENSIVE

ALGIERS (AP) — The French announced today that the Algerian rebels have launched a major new offensive. The French admitted 69 of their men killed, 79 wounded and 11 missing in four days of fighting—more than they have lost all winter.

Rebel losses were put at about 157 dead, a ratio far below the usual French claim.

French Stand
Pat on Tunisia

PARIS (AP) — A sweeping attack by Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on American policy in the Arab world was seen today as additional evidence that France will not be pushed into any compromise with Tunisia.

Pineau said the U.S. government has erred in 1, its sponsorship of the Baghdad Pact; 2, halting the British-French invasion of the Suez; 3, proposing the Eisenhower plan of aid to Middle East countries to combat Communist aggression; and 4, its North African policy—particularly the token arms shipment Britain and the U.S. sent to Tunisia last November.

Documents Altered
Court Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former C. D. Schultz Company accountant testified today that there were numerous "alterations or obliterations" in one record book of the company put to him for identification in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy preliminary hearing.

George H. Davenport replied in the affirmative eight times when asked if he saw any alterations or obliterations on certain pages of a Schultz Company record book concerning payment of monies to the Schultz by the Tahsis lumber firm.

The entries concerned payments of $2,000 a month made to the Schultz company as a retainer fee by Tahsis.

This is the document, part of the Crown's evidence in the case involving former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers and others, which prosecutor Stewart McMorran Tuesday said apparently had been tampered with. At McMorran's request, the ledger was put through a scientific process in an attempt to "raise" figures he said had been erased with ink eradicator.

Later the witness, identifying a document headed "Total, CDS, HWG and others," said he couldn't positively identify it, but he had made up one like it for Mr. Schultz.

He said that Schultz told him that "others" on the document, which was dated Oct. 25, 1954, "was Robert Sommers, the then minister of lands and forests."

Davenport, who was the Schultz Company accountant between March, 1953, and 1955, now is secretary-treasurer of Bralorne Mines.

IDENTITIES NOTE

Generally he was not asked to explain the import of many ledgers, cheques and vouchers which form evidence in the Crown's case. But in one instance, he identified a note sent to him by Mr. Schultz as instructions to send $300 to W. D. Samson through the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Dawson Creek, B.C., in 1954.

In another instance, identifying a 1954 cheque for $10,000, sent by the Schultz Company to Pacific Coast Services, Davenport testified he had been instructed by Mr. Schultz to dispatch it.

He said Schultz had a 22-month contract for payment by the Tahsis Company of retainer fees of $2,000 a month in connection with engineering and other work.

He then was asked to identify successive entries of this $2,000 monthly payment and say whether he could see any obliterations or alterations in them.

He replied that he could or "there are," but was not asked to explain what had been obliterated or altered.

Rebels Stage
Daring Raid
On Cuba Bank

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuban rebels made a daring raid on the National Bank of Cuba in the heart of Havana today, tied up the bank's employees and set fire to thousands of cheques. They made no effort to take the bank's cash.

Nine men were reported killed today in mysterious shootings, bombings and sabotage incidents in Oriente province where the rebel leader, Fidel Castro, has been conducting guerrilla war against the regime of President Fulgencio Batista for more than a year.

Two suspected rebels were shot dead after hurling a grenade at an army patrol in San flagio de Cuba.

A-ARMS ONLY DEFENCE AGAINST RUSSIA—SANDYS

LONDON (Reuters)—Defence Minister Duncan Sandys said today the West at present has "no alternative" but to use nuclear weapons against any major Soviet aggression with conventional arms.

"It is the accepted and well-established strategy of NATO and it is by this method that peace has been preserved during the last decade," Sandys said.

Storms Wreak
Havoc in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—Shivering Britons floundered through waist-high drifts today as one of the worst winter storms in 40 years spread havoc throughout the country.

Scores of towns and villages were isolated by snowdrifts up to 15 feet deep as the storm continued into its third day. Some communities were reported running short of food as snow-clearing equipment battles to reach them through the drift-clogged roads.

Motoring organizations reported "chaos everywhere" with more than 100 main roads blocked and thousands of cars abandoned. Trains were hopelessly behind schedule, some arriving as late as 11 hours late in London on runs from Scotland.

Hundreds of children slept in their schools when their buses were unable to get through to take them home.

Telephone and power lines were wrenched down and a 92-year-old woman was killed near Dover when wind sent the chimney of her home crashing down through the roof.

Gales whipped the English Channel today and storms off England's southeast coast were described as the worst in memory. Pounding seas blasted huge holes in concrete sea walls.

At Le Havre, France, ships were waiting off port unable to dock until storms subsided.

2 in Hospital

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — R. Lorne McCuish, an insurance adjuster, was shot in the stomach as he sat at his desk in the business district of this central B.C. city today. He was taken to hospital for surgery.

Five minutes later an unidentified man, believed by police to have been McCuish's assailant, shot himself in the head on the street. His condition is critical.

peatedly resisted popular demands that it cut taxes. It had deliberately piled up large surpluses when money was free and easy and used them to cut the debt by some $2.5 billions.

This was done for the very purpose to build up government credit so that when times went slack because of world conditions the country could go into "deficit financing" in order to restore the economic balance.

James Sinclair, of Coast-Capitano riding, former minister of fisheries who has become the chief opposition financial critic, said at the Royal Theatre meeting, the reductions are proposed as part of scientific cyclical budgeting to restore the country to normal business levels and employment.

He pointed out that through the postwar boom years the Liberal government had re-

Sudbury Races to Aid
Of Stricken Freighter

Victoria's deep-sea salvage towboat Ss. Sudbury has been called on for another long towing job in the stormy winter Pacific.

She has been summoned to the aid of the Greek freighter Andros Legend, which lost her propeller a week ago and since then has been drifting helplessly nearly 2,000 miles due west of Cape Flattery.

The Island Tug and Barge towboat was called on Tuesday when a Seattle-based ocean tug, the Neptune, gave up an attempt to reach the freighter.

The U.S. tug left a week ago under orders of the freighter's owners, but heavy seas, reported to have smashed her wheelhouse, forced her to turn back.

It was then the Victoria company was asked to send the Sudbury, which at the time was nearing the end of a 400-mile job with the Liberian freighter, Lomaland, under tow.

At the time the Sudbury was near Estevan, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, Island Tug and Barge dispatched the slightly-smaller tug

Pearson Pledges
Major Study on U.K. Free Trade

Lester B. "Mike" Pearson, the man who has set out to rebuild the fortunes of the national Liberal Party after its defeat last June, got a warm welcome from an overflow audience at Royal Victoria Theatre Tuesday night as he made one of his major speeches of the election campaign.

The new leader stepped from the role of Canada's great international statesman, in which Victorians saw him last May, to the down-to-earth campaigner dealing with domestic as well as foreign issues.

Mr. Pearson and his former cabinet colleague, James Sinclair, effectively covered a half dozen of the major campaign

Four Main Points Featured

Mr. Pearson made four main points:

1. Canada should look closely at Britain's offer of a free-trade area with Canada—an offer summarily brushed aside by the Tories—and should even carry it further to consider a free-trading unit with all NATO countries.

2. The United States cannot expect defence co-ordination or integration with Canada unless it is also prepared for economic and trade co-ordination with Canada at the same time.

3. Pledged that if he is elected he will insist on a proper defence agreement with the United States, covering the joint air defence command agreed to by the Tories without any reference to Parliament.

4. The question of peace is in no sense a partisan issue and should not be treated as such in the election campaign.

Mr. Pearson appeared fresh

'Deplorable Choice' Possible

He referred to the growing free-trade movement in Europe and said Canada by not acting now might be faced with a "deplorable choice" between European or U.S. trade.

"No country has more at stake in this particular development than Canada," he said.

There must be strong government initiative in this field. Canada depends on foreign trade for its prosperity more than any other country in the world, Mr. Pearson said, and no part of Canada is more vitally concerned than B.C.

The objective in correcting a long-time imbalance of trade with the U.S. should be to expand exports, not curtail imports.

Traditional Liberal policy has been to expand trade, Mr. Pearson said, criticizing the Conservative proposal to divert 15 per cent of Canada's trade with the U.S. to the United Kingdom.

The Liberal leader said attempts of some groups in the U.S. to restrict Canadian imports through heavy tariffs have been "unfair and unwarranted."

"When in office we did our best to keep in check these protectionist tendencies... but we didn't have all the success we hoped for."

Faced with the same situation, the Conservatives had sent a special mission to Washington "with no more success than we had."

At the same time, Mr. Pearson warned that "nothing could hurt us more than a trade war with our neighbor."

Trade with Britain poses different problems than trade with the U.S., he said.

"It is a question of how we can help each other."

The Conservatives were given an opportunity to improve the situation last summer "by one of the most striking and imaginative trade offers ever received by Canada."

But nothing had been heard from the government since that time on the free-trade proposal.

"The Canadian government should have reacted immediately," Mr. Pearson said, "by promising a full study of the offer."

Mr. Pearson said the previous Liberal government did all it could to promote expanded trade within the Commonwealth.

"There were more meetings

BIG IF NEEDED

Tax Cut
Possible
Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today a tax cut is a possibility if, as he put it, there is a deepening of the business depression.

Eisenhower said a tax reduction would not necessarily be his administration's last resort in dealing with economic conditions.

He said a great deal of money is going to be spent on public works, flood control, defence and other domestic budget items.

ing on the Conservatives to resign and turn the government over to the Liberals, Mr. Pearson said there was constitutional precedent for it.

The motion sought the support of the other parties for the Liberal program, he said.

"But they wanted no part of it at all—and I can understand that."

To other questioners Mr. Pearson said he is not in favor of a capital gains tax in a "young and growing" country like Canada; wouldn't change the operation of the Trans-Canada Pipeline, and defended large-scale immigration in the last few years which he said had added new wealth to the country and actually stimulated employment.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

One night last week, after a whole afternoon and evening of listening to speeches, I became slightly delirious and pictured the B.C. government as an orchestra under the masterful baton of maestro Premier Bennett.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston went one better Tuesday by likening the Social Credit administration to a gallant ship battling its way through a squall, hatches battened down, engines running at full power while Captain Premier Bennett strode the bridge, determined to keep his vessel on course.

In our mind's eye the cabinet suddenly sprouted peaked sailor caps and, above the shriek of the wind, we seemed to hear First Officer Philip Gagliardi booming instructions to the deck crew while Captain Bennett hurried to his cabin and scribbled a terse memo to Chief Engineer Robert Bonner.

"Get up a good head of steam—I am expecting dirty weather."

However, Mr. Williston's simile (as he called it) did not quite reach that stage of whimsy. He likened the B.C. ship of state to an "economic tug."

"This ship has a captain," Mr. Williston said, "and he is on course. He may be facing a bit of a squall just now but he has no intention of altering his course and he knows where he is going."

Here there was a lamentable interruption from the land-lubbers on the Opposition side of the house.

"We know where he is going — straight down," said CCF leader Robert Strachan. Ignoring this siren voice from the rocks, Mr. Williston continued:

"No tows will be abandoned. A couple of anchors ensnared in debt will be cut adrift and a few fresh towlines will be put aboard."

"The engines will be maintained to provide full power. The hatches may be battened down and the captain may be in his cabin where you cannot see his ready smile. But he is still there and working harder than ever."

"It is true the paint may be slightly chipped and the meals and service a little less refined. But essentially we are sailing a good sound ship, on course and with plenty in reserve."

"The Opposition would have the faint-hearted run for the lifeboats, since their cloudy prognostications offer little navigational assistance to those charged with responsibility."

Social Credit Names Bell In Esquimalt

Esquimalt-Saanich Social Credit federal nominating meeting Tuesday unanimously named Noel Bell as candidate for the March 31 election.

About 100 persons attended the meeting in Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall.

Three other persons, Carey W. Smalley, Mrs. C. Hyndman and Derek Pethick, also were nominated but declined in favor of Mr. Bell.

Mr. Bell, a salesman, was defeated in the last election, polling 2,724 votes compared to 11,765 for Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, now minister of national defence.

Hope Moscow-Bound

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope, equipped with a Russian dictionary and fur hat but without a Russian visa, left by air Tuesday for London en route to Moscow.

He said he expects to obtain the necessary Soviet clearance after reaching England so that he can attend a screening of one of his films in Moscow March 4. The showing has been arranged as a cultural exchange program.

FATHER, 78, LAW STUDENT

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A 78-year-old father of five children has enrolled in the University of Bridgeport for a law degree. Maurice Friedman has registered in the university's evening division and expects to enroll as a full-time student in September. "At my age it's hard to get a job anywhere," he said.

Labor Council Seeks Bonner Resignation

Demand for immediate resignation of Attorney-General Robert Bonner for his handling of the Sommers case will be sent to Premier Bennett by Victoria Labor Council.

Copies of the resolution also will be sent to Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and the B.C. Federation of Labor. They were being prepared today.

The resolution was authorized by a special meeting of the VLC executive Monday. It is a reworded version of a resolution passed last week by the council that was withdrawn by the executive.

"It demands resignation of the attorney-general because he 'did contrary to his duties of office in our opinion, ignore for nearly two years evidence submitted to him on the Sommers case.'"

345 Protest 'Outside' Vote On Big Project

CAMPBELL RIVER — A protest against "outsiders" being allowed to vote Monday in a plebiscite on the proposed $2,000,000 waterfront development here has been signed by 345 village residents and forwarded to Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston.

Ratepayers within an area six miles north and south of the village, and on Quadra Island, will be allowed to vote.

The plebiscite was ordered by the government to ascertain public opinion on the issue, which has been the subject of heated controversy in the area.

John D. Hints Speedy Social Security Action

HULL, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, speaking optimistically of Progressive Conservative election chances March 31, has hinted at speedy action to broaden Canada's social security system.

"I believe it will not be very long before we will be in a position to introduce in the new Parliament a contributory social security system," he said here Tuesday night.

He said, too, he has found everywhere "a groundswell of feeling" that his Conservative government should be returned with a majority mandate because it has carried out its promises and deserves a chance to implement its larger program of national development.

Mr. Diefenbaker flew today to Rimouski for his third campaign in Quebec prior to a three-day swing east to Charlottetown, Sydney, N.S., and Saint John, N.B.

The prime minister hinted at a possible extension of the period in which supplementary winter unemployment insurance benefits are paid.

He also indicated prompt action on holding an "informal" meeting between the federal government and municipal representatives—he said it would occur after the election—to hear municipal views on their financial problems.

EDMONTON (CP) — Solon Low, national Social Credit party leader, says the only difference between the "two old parties" is that "one is in and the other is out trying to get in."

Mr. Low also said Tuesday night in an address over a national television network that the March 31 federal general election is unnecessary, irresponsible and extravagant.

Mr. Low accused both the former Liberal and Progressive Conservative governments of burying an analysis of Canada's economic situation in March, 1957, prepared by M. W. Sharp of the federal trade department and containing "many warnings of the serious downward trend in economic activity."

REGINA (CP) — CCF leader Coldwell said Tuesday night that the royal commission on energy resources is designed to "smother" demands that the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline be publicly owned.

Speaking on a live television broadcast, Mr. Coldwell said the commission will remove from the government responsibilities it assumed while in opposition.

Famed Author Fourth Husband For Paulette

BRANFORD, Conn. (AP) — Actress Paulette Goddard and novelist Erich Maria Remarque were married Tuesday in a quiet civil ceremony.

"I'm very happy," said the 42-year-old actress after she was married for the fourth time. It was the second marriage for Remarque, 59.

Manitoulin Island, Ont., in Mr. Pearson's constituency of Algoma East. Next to her in line is Mrs. Jan Simpson, wife of the headmaster of Glenlyon School. In the second picture, he shares a joke with Maj. David

Mr. Pearson accepts a Cowichan Indian sweater from Barbara Hudson, 12, on behalf of the Duncan and district Liberal Association. (Times and Flett Studio Photos.)

MONTE ROBERTS

I am forever telling you what the constituents have to say, in person, by phone, and by letter.
Today it is my pleasure to report on a letter from a NON (repeat, NON) constituent.
This letter has reference to a recent column regarding large, giant, and jumbo packages of Dissolve.
And the NON-constituent has this delightful comment: "Your Favorite Wife should purchase one Jumbo size of Dissolve and sprinkle one Jumbo size Dissolve on one Monte Roberts and the column by the same name."
Ah, well. You can please some of the people some of the time.
Or can you?

My dear friends and good companions aboard HMCS Ontario as she steams toward far-away places with strange-sounding names will be glad to know their ship is featured on the back page of U.S. published, internationally-circulated magazines this week.
Yes, sir, there she is, large as life—the "BIG O," which as even the veriest lubber knows, is the affectionate nickname for our training cruiser.
The "BIG O" appears in a full-page, color advertisement, which advises:

SMOKE THE BIG O.

Which is all very well, as long as the ERO doesn't follow the advice.
(That's a nautical joke, son. Sort of.)

A new development in the Centennial beard situation has been brought to my attention.
This is for men who don't wish to grow beards but also do not wish to shave during their weekends away from the office.

They have patterned themselves after the navy reserve men, who are widely known as weekend sailors.

OUR boys call themselves "weekend bearders."

When their wives protest because they do not shave on Sunday morning, the weekend bearders say they are growing Centennial whiskers.

On Monday mornings, they say they've changed their minds, and shave as usual.

So far it has worked fine.

But I understand some of the wives are standing by to repel bearders.

CPA Executive To Address Publicity Bureau

Principal speaker at the annual meeting of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau Friday will be former Victorian H. Bryan Renwick, vice-president in charge of traffic, Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Mr. Renwick is past president of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce and was an executive of United Airlines for two years before joining CPA in Vancouver.

He will speak at a publicity bureau luncheon in the Empress Hotel at 12 noon.

Among those attending will be Premier Bennett and a number of MLAs.

Following the luncheon a three-act play tracing the history of tourism in Victoria in the past 100 years will be presented.

JUVENILE AGE DROP OPPOSED

Reduction of the juvenile age from 18 to 16 years was opposed by the B.C. Corrections Association in a brief to the legislative committee on juvenile delinquency today.

Collin Farmer, spokesman for the group and senior treatment officer at Oakalla jail, said police forces had repeatedly urged reducing the age because 16 and 17-year-olds did not respond to juvenile treatment methods and needed "sterner punishments."

The association opposed the change because, among other things, there is no real evidence the 16-17 age group is responsible for an increase in violent crimes, and where the juvenile age has been lowered in other provinces it has not stemmed the tide of delinquency.

Sentence Cut Allowing Men To Seek Work

A pair of Victoria men were given reduced jail terms in city police court today so they would have the opportunity to work this summer.

Sentenced to four months each on charges of obtaining money by false pretences were Douglas E. Carlson, 717 Pandora and Leon Nott, 290 Burnside East.

Nott was given a concurrent sentence of four months for possession of stolen property.

Police said Carlson purchased a $7.30 shirt at Hudson's Bay Co., gave the sales slip to Nott and a few minutes later exchanged the shirt and got the money back.

B.C. Labor Strife Exceeds Rest of Nation, Parley Told

Labor unrest and labor-employer conflict have been more widespread in British Columbia than in other provinces, Dr. Stuart Jamieson, department of economics, University of British Columbia, told the opening session of the B.C. Natural Resources Conference today.

The conference was opened by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood at the Empress Hotel.

Over 300 delegates representing industry and the government are attending the three-day meeting.

Speaking on a panel discussion on "The People of B.C. in Perspective," Dr. Jamieson said widespread labor unrest had occurred "despite the fact that in B.C. wages are generally higher, weekly hours of work shorter, and fringe benefits more liberal than in other provinces."

REASONS

He gave the following reasons for the labor unrest.

1. B.C. has remained a frontier region up to the present day and North American frontier regions have been breeding grounds of militant, and in the broad sense, radical labor movements and political parties.

2. B.C. specializes in the type of industry found to be "strike prone" in most countries.

3. B.C. workers tend to be influenced by American wage and living standards to a greater degree than workers in other provinces.

Speaking on population trends, Prof. T. I. Matuszewski, department of economics, UBC, said B.C.'s population growth was marked by instability and recent large birth figures were not likely to maintain themselves over the next eight or ten years.

A large part of the population increase is made up of immigration from other parts of Canada and from abroad, he said.

BIASED

"The disproportionately large number of elderly persons who are immigrants, coupled with B.C.'s low fertility rate relative to that of other provinces, is responsible for the age structure of B.C.'s population being definitely 'biased' toward older age groups," he stated.

According to Bernard R. Blisshem, department of anthropology, UBC, the so-called "opinion leaders" may be influential in the formation of decisions, but are not the men who have the power to affect the economic security of the people.

"The economically powerful may be able to impose economic sanctions, but they are not directly influenced in the political, associational or religious behavior of others," he said.

He was speaking on social factors affecting consumer decisions.

Both Sides Quiet In Electricians' Threatened Strike

No further developments occurred today in the threatened strike by 120 electrical workers here against B.C. Electric and Hume & Rumble Ltd.

Jack Driscoll, business agent for Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said no date for strike action has been set.

The Victoria local, along with a Vancouver local representing 1,200 men, gave 48 hours' notice Monday that they may call a strike "at any time" to back their demands in a current wage dispute.

Machinists To Refuse Overtime Work

Endorsement of local machinists' decision to refuse overtime work in Victoria shipyards was sent to federal Labor Minister Michael Starr Tuesday by Victoria Labor Council.

Machinists, Fitters and Helpers, Local No. 3, recently gave notice to Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot that overtime would be refused except in case of emergency.

"We deem this action necessary owing to the large number of our members unemployed at this time," the notice said.

ULC endorsed the stand and urged all affiliated unions to take similar action to help alleviate the unemployment problem.

$1,278 GIVEN TO CHARITIES BY POWER COMMISSION STAFF

Cheques totalling $1,278 were mailed today to eight local charitable organizations by Miss Sheila Mann, secretary of the B.C. Power Commission Employees' Charitable Fund.

They brought to $2,058 the amount donated to charity in the past year by power commission head office employees, who choose the organizations and determine amounts donated to each.

Latest to benefit are the Salvation Army, $207; Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, $127; Red Cross, $136; Queen Alexandra Solarium, $150; Community Chest of Greater Victoria, $165; B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund, $144; Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island, $167, and the Canadian Cancer Society, $178.

Teen-Aged Driver Given Reprimand

City police gave a 16-year-old Victoria driver a severe reprimand Tuesday for not reporting immediately an accident in which a 4-year-old boy received a broken leg Monday at 4 p.m.

In satisfactory condition at Jubilee Hospital is Jimmy Gomer, 1531 Edgeware, who was taken in with jaw and face lacerations and a broken right leg after being run over by the car.

Police were told by the 16-year-old Tuesday he had pulled away from a parked position on Edgeware without noticing the boy playing in front of his car. A friend took the tot to hospital and his parents were notified.

Albert Kennedy, 6, of 2403 Douglas, was taken to Jubilee and is in satisfactory condition.

Remo Guolo, 23, Royal Olympic Hotel, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a forehead abrasion and Diane Michelin, 23, of 2969 Albina, for abrasions received in a three-car collision at Gorge and Harriet at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Guolo was driver of one car, Ronald Jackson, 39 Gorge West, driver of another car and Charles Bartram, 1170 Esquimalt, owner of a parked car struck by Guolo's vehicle.

Mike's Sweet Reason

"Are Victoria political meetings always like this?"

This was the question tossed at a group backstage at the Royal Theatre, Tuesday night, by Norman DePoe, who is covering the Pearson tour for CBC radio and television.

We all knew what Norman meant. The meeting was so orderly, so well-mannered, so restrained, it seemed more like a night session in Adult Education than a political meeting.

Almost completely missing was the electricity, the antagonism, the cock-pit aura of a Bennett performance, in which the chief protagonist seems to say: "Pour it on—I love it!"

In short, last night's meeting seemed more of an appeal to reason rather than emotion.

All of which is wonderful—but does it win elections?

Mr. Pearson, it seemed to me, was over the head of the average voter on the complexities of international trade. His point that it's impossible to "divert" $625 million from the U.S. to Britain overnight is perfectly valid—but the sums are astronomical, the implications too involved for the casual listener.

Similarly, his comments about trade within the NATO orbit. All of it was perfectly sound—but who can forget the survey which showed that 75 per cent of 2,000 Americans interviewed didn't even know what the initials stood for?

Mike was at his best in the question period. Here his easy informality, his patent honesty, shone through and the audience got a peek at his greatness.

When Bill Scott asked a question about trade with Communist China, Pearson gave a categorical 1-2-3 reply which drew applause from the audience. When a young man asked why coffee and cocoa "cost 40 cents a pound more" in Canada than the United States, Pearson said that he doubted the discrepancy in figures but didn't know enough about trade in

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Would you please tell me why the channel numbers on a television set begin at 2 and end with 13, rather than begin at 1 and end at 12? D.W.C.

A.—There used to be a channel 1, about 10 years ago, but it was dropped as it interfered with the rest of the TV spectrum. But the numbers are just for reference to the viewer, so you could call them anything you wish, providing this doesn't confuse you on the programs.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times," Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mayor Percy Scourrah is expected to return to City Hall Friday after an absence of several weeks.

The mayor has been in Ottawa and Montreal and later took a short vacation.

He attended an executive meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and discussed the fast ferry proposal with federal officials.

The city-operated Mountain View Home for elderly men will be entertained Friday night by a concert party from Pro Patria branch, Canadian Legion.

Harbor Lights concert party entertained at the home last Friday.

Acting mayor Arthur Dowell said today he will recommend that Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee take up the matter of saving Craigflower Peninsula for a park.

Several local groups are protesting his proposed use as a housing site.

He said he will suggest to Mayor Scourrah that the intermunicipal committee prepare a brief to the B.C. cabinet and the Capital District Improvement Commission.

All groups now interested in the project should be unified into one organization.

"I think they would listen if we all spoke together," he stated.

Welsh Society of Victoria will honor its patron saint with a banquet and concert on St. David's Day, Saturday, at the Glenisland Hotel, commencing at 7 p.m.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Cowichan returns 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi return 3 p.m. March 6.

Crescent, Cayuga, Skeena, Fraser, Margaree on Far East cruise, return April 2.

Ontario left on cruise to Hawaii, Fiji, Australia, New Zealand, returning May 5.

Sussexvale and Ste. Therese left Monday, return 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Centennial safety awards will be presented to the B.C. Forest Ltd. plywood plant on Gorge Road by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks at 11 a.m. next Wednesday. The awards are for an outstanding record of accident-free operation of the plywood plant.

Victoria Labor Council will co-ordinate activities of all union political education committees in the area. First meeting of the VLC's co-ordinating committee will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Labor Headquarters, 615 Pandora.

It was set up late last year under chairmanship of A. A. Playfair. Political education committees of the approximately 65 union affiliates are represented.

Seventy players took part in the weekly session of Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club Tuesday.

North-south winners were Elizabeth Warren and Lil Tattersall, Otto Lesment and Louis Lindholm, Les Stewart and Gordon Rodger, Laura Tingley and John Allen. East-west, Ann Kocutyn and Doug Tuck, Eric Goodwin and Jim Duprau, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McConnell, Frank Artlett and Gordon Greenwood.

Representatives of city and Island organizations are expected to attend a meeting of Thetis Park Sanctuary Association in Victoria College room 210 Friday at 8 p.m.

Aims and objectives of the newly-formed group will be outlined, and a display of Emily Sartin's paintings of Thetis Park flowers will be on display.

Garden expert George Hepworth will give a rose-pruning demonstration in the rose garden of "Strangewood," 1800 Tyndall, Saturday at 2:30 p.m., for members of Gordon Head Garden Club.

The club meets next in Gordon Head Community Hall Monday at 8 p.m. President E. M. Renouf will speak on care and cultivation of delphiniums and peonies.

Joseph N. Frank, 44 Camden, was fined $250 and his driver's licence was suspended when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court today to a charge of impaired driving.

Assistant city engineer G. N. Worsley will address a meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society, Vancouver Island Chapter, in the Flame Room, B.C. Electric Building, tonight at 8 p.m. His paper is entitled "Traffic Signals—Their Study and Application."

The "Twilight Singers" will entertain friends and members of the congregation of St. Chad's Anglican Mission, Majestic and Hawthorne, Friday at 7:30 p.m. Their program will include songs and dances. The entertainment is in anticipation of St. Chad's Day Sunday.

Martin Hansen, 2120 Millstream, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court today to two charges of false pretences, involving cheques for $25 and $5 and was remanded for sentence to Thursday.

Police said he cashed the first at Eng's Foodliner, 3475 Quadra, the second at Westview Service Station, Island Highway, both on Dec. 4, 1957.

Leonard Robert Rivard, Work Point, and William Rimmer, 827 North Park, each were fined $30 in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to having liquor in a restaurant.

Help Pours In for Mother Of Five Facing Eviction

A young mother of five who faced eviction from her home early this month has had her prayers answered by a Times reader.

Plight of the woman, whose husband is in a mental hospital, was told in The Times Feb. 6.

Since then Barry Gollob, a friend of the family, received "dozens of calls" offering help.

Among callers was a subscriber to The Times who offered to rent a six-room home in Esquimalt to the family.

The mother and her brood will move in Sunday, Mr. Gollob said, with the help of eight members of the new Centennial Boys' Club. A moving truck will be loaned by Jubilee Transfer.

Look! Absorbent Tea Towels Have Gone Modernistic!

By PENNY SAVER

There's always something new coming out to brighten dull household chores! The latest is tea towels, bright colored and highly absorbent and in modernistic and semi-modernistic designs. I've fallen for the gloriously colorful maps of the world. With them you might interest the children in a geography lesson while they help dry dinner dishes! Each towel costs $1. And that's a bargain!

The 1958 calendar is printed on another set of tea towels priced at $1. too. They're color-fast, and come in a variety of paintbox shades.

There are also towels with the symbolic designs of the four seasons: spring, summer, autumn and winter, which Victoria is not getting!

Friends on your mailing list with birthdays coming up soon will be pleased and surprised to receive tatted lace handkerchiefs on the anniversary. These handkerchiefs are made in Ireland and are selling at 60 cents each. An easy-to-send present for a friend living far away.

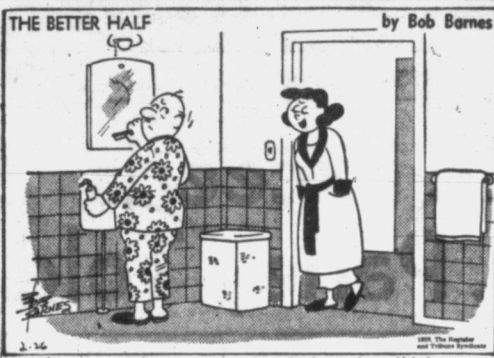

Giving an extra special luncheon or bridge party? You'll be delighted when you see the leaf green linen sets. Cloth and napkins are each centred with colored leaves in a modern design.

It's an attractive package to present as a shower or wedding gift, or to buy yourself! Priced at $4.95. There are three different colors for you to choose from, besides the green.

Try making up your own towels. That way you can choose the size you like and the color. Purchase several yards of toweling and sew bath, hand or guest towels to your heart's content. A yard costs only $1.25.

If she has a gay, sparkling nature, the color-splashed handkerchiefs I found today would be just right to give her! If she is a dog lover, there are dandy handkerchiefs with pictures of dogs on the corners. Price range starts at 35 cents.

On your way to town? Then—give me a call at 2-3131. I'll tell you where to shop—and save!

MOTHER'S DILEMMA

Two weeks ago I mailed invitations to five girls for a luncheon and theatre party to celebrate my daughter's 13th birthday. With only three days to go, not one has acknowledged. What should I do? I hate to seem rude by telephoning the mothers, but as I have purchased six reserved-seat tickets, I naturally want to know if they can come. If any of the girls cannot accept, would it be all right to ask a substitute, and, if so, should I tell the girl what has happened so she will understand why the last-minute invitation?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

Phone each of the mothers. It is time other faces were red instead of yours. Perhaps your calls might remind them that they have ill-mannered and thoughtless daughters. Just say that you mailed Sally an invitation for luncheon and the theatre and feel that you cannot wait any longer for an answer. At this point, you cannot grant

RCAF Press Relations Job For Tall, Striking Blonde

TORONTO (CP)—A tall, striking blonde lends a touch of glamor to a job heretofore held only by men in Canada's air force.

She is Flying Officer Alice Margaret Outram of Ottawa. "Amo" to her friends. At 22 she is the first woman press relations officer employed in the general information branch of the RCAF. Recently she was posted to Toronto from Ottawa.

"Press liaison work is a full-time job," said FO Outram, who is on the spot daily at RCAF headquarters here ready to give facts about the air force, whether it be air defence, transport or DEW line information.

READY WITH ANSWERS
She answers all queries. Some are from wives who haven't received their husband's monthly cheques. Others might ask about physiotherapists at Goose Bay or about trailer camps at a camp in Alberta.

"Life in the women's division of the air force is ideal," she said in an interview. She recommends young girls and women to enlist and join some 2,600 others already in the service.

"It offers practical experience, sound training and wonderful opportunities to travel," said the blue-eyed flying officer.

Another aspect of the WD which appeals to many who are interested in furthering their education, is that the RCAF will put students through their last year of college in return for a few years' service after graduation.

Give Some Thought To Picking Physician

In a recent public affairs pamphlet, a health educator and writer says, "Much needed loss of life and health can be avoided if we devote at least as much attention to the upkeep of health as we do to our cars and homes."

The educator makes many practical suggestions concerning the welfare and safety of the family. There is nothing more important than the selection of your family physician. Yet many women give more thought to the selection of a piece of furniture. I think many folks just do not know how to go about selecting a physician.

The following are some of the warnings:
1. Don't wait until illness strikes to find your doctor.
2. Don't pick a doctor just because he is nearby, or the one your neighbor or friend swears by.
3. Don't ask the postman or your neighborhood druggist to recommend one and don't select one yourself at random from a telephone directory.
4. Don't choose Doctor X because you have heard that his fee is high and therefore he must be good, or Doctor Y because his fee is low and you will save money.

5. Finally, DON'T pick the doctor with the winning personality whom you met at a party. Any one of these may happen to be qualified, but there is a risk that the doctor chosen so casually may not be reputable professionally.

One way to select a physician is to locate a good hospital in your town. Ask it to give you the names of several doctors. For this you telephone the office of the medical director or the superintendent.

Another way to choose a doctor is to write or telephone the doctor's directory and ask for the names of physicians. A competent family physician will know when you need to see a specialist, or may suggest one for your peace of mind. He also will help you locate one.

Trace Sad Hairdo to Wrong Care

If your last permanent was disappointing to you, there's probably a very good reason why. Maybe more than one reason. Most women complain of frizz.

Frizz can be caused by an inexperienced operator but it can also be caused by wearing a hat immediately upon leaving the beauty shop or by running a damp comb through the hair. And there is something you can do about it.

The first time you shampoo your hair, add a cream rinse to the second or third rinse water. This will work wonders in removing frizz. A good stiff brush will help, too.

If your problem was a weak, limp permanent, it may be that you brushed your hair while it was still damp after a shampoo. This is great for removing the curl. Wait until your hair is thoroughly dry before you brush it.

And be sure that your hair is properly cut and shaped before you have your next permanent. Every trace of the old wave should be banished.

Someone once said that it would be a great boon to humanity if the thought process could be switched off at night.

just like an electric light. This is only too true since our thoughts, chiefly in the form of worry, are usually what keep us awake at night.

But since we can't switch them off, we must learn to do the next best thing if we're to get a full night's sleep with health and good looks as the result. And the next best thing is absolutely refusing to turn over in your mind the problem that's bothering you.

This doesn't sound easy and it isn't, but practice does help. Tell yourself that there's nothing you can do about it at the moment and that you'll tackle it again in the morning when you're fresh. You'd be surprised how that helps. When you get this trick nearly perfected, you won't be troubled by insomnia.

Care of hands and face is no sometime thing. It requires constant attention.

How, then, can a busy mother find time to "keep after" her complexion and skin care while chasing a passel of youngsters and pets in addition to her home-making duties?

The secret: establish a beauty care centre in the kitchen and laundry.

All you need in each place is a shelf out of reach of small fry and these basic ingredients: a good soap, lotion and hand cream. Their use will help to keep your beauty routine from getting out of hand.

EDMONTON (BUP)—Lester B. Pearson, national leader of the Liberal Party, was greeted with kisses on both cheeks when he arrived from Victoria today.

Pearson's plane touched down at the city's Municipal Airport at noon.

He was greeted by a crowd of some 350 supporters, including Mohamed Haymour, formerly of Egypt, who kissed Pearson "for saving so many lives in the Middle East."

Two Children Die in Flames

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—Two little children who were too frightened to heed the pleas of their mother and jump from a second-floor window, died today in a fire which destroyed the family's home. Mrs. Ed Hauffe said her four-year-old daughter and two-year-old son were upstairs when she heard a crackling noise and found the house was ablaze.

PM Suspends Rates Hike

OTTAWA (BUP)—Railway freight rate increases and higher telephone charges granted by the Bell Telephone Company have been suspended until May 1, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today. Both increases would have gone into operation March 1, after earlier suspensions.

Wreck of Canadian Jet Sighted

MAYPORT, Fla. (BUP)—Searching U.S. Navy planes today sighted what appeared to be the wreckage of a missing Banshee jet fighter from the Royal Canadian Navy aircraft carrier Bonaventure. The Banshee was piloted by William T. B. Troy, 29, of Campbellton, N.B.

Susan Butt Wins Second Round

MIAMI (CP)—Susan Butt of Victoria today defeated Gay Miller of Miami 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 in the women's second round of the Miami tennis tournament.

Tax Cut Proposal
Scientific--Sinclair

See also page 3.

The man who might become finance minister of Canada if the Liberals are elected to power made it clear to Victorians Tuesday night that the $400 million in tax cuts proposed by the party are in no sense an effort to outbid the Tories in attractions to the voters.

James Sinclair, of Coast-Capilano riding, former minister of fisheries who has become the chief opposition financial critic, said at the Royal Theatre meeting, the reductions are proposed as part of scientific cyclical budgeting to restore the country to normal business levels and employment.

He pointed out that through the postwar boom years the Liberal government had repeatedly resisted popular demands that it cut taxes. It had deliberately piled up large surpluses when money was free and easy and used them to cut the debt by some $2.5 billions.

This was done for the very purpose to build up government credit so that when times went slack because of world conditions the country could go into "deficit financing" in order to restore the economic balance.

This time, he said, has now come. The treasury, as nurtured by the Liberals' long range policy, is ready for it.

This long range policy, he said, had been adopted immediately after the war because the government had made up its mind, as had so many people,

Storms Wreak
Havoc in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—Shivering Britons floundered through waist-high drifts today as one of the worst winter storms in 40 years spread havoc throughout the country.

Scores of towns and villages were isolated by snowdrifts up to 15 feet deep as the storm continued into its third day. Some communities were reported running short of food as snow-clearing equipment battles to reach them through the drift-clogged roads.

Motorists organizations reported "chaos everywhere" with more than 100 main roads blocked and thousands of cars abandoned. Trains were hopelessly behind schedule, some arriving as much as 11 hours late in London on runs from Scotland.

Hundreds of children slept in their schools when their buses were unable to get through to take them home.

Telephone and power lines were wrenched down and a 92-year-old woman was killed near Dover when wind sent the chimney of her home crashing down through the roof.

Gales whipped the English Channel today and storms off England's southeast coast were described as the worst in memory. Pounding seas blasted huge holes in concrete sea walls.

At Le Havre, France, ships were waiting off port unable to dock until storms subsided.

OVERFLOW CROWD

Pearson Given
Warm Welcome

Lester B. "Mike" Pearson, the man who has set out to rebuild the fortunes of the national Liberal Party after its defeat last June, got a warm welcome from an overflow audience at Royal Victoria Theatre Tuesday night as he made one of his major speeches of the election campaign.

The new leader stepped from the role of Canada's great international statesman, in which Victorians saw him last May, to the down-to-earth campaigner dealing with domestic as well as foreign issues.

Mr. Pearson and his former cabinet colleague, James Sinclair, effectively covered a half dozen of the major campaign issues in two 40-minute speeches.

But it was in a question period afterward that Mr. Pearson shone most, demonstrating his diplomatic technique in handling queries designed to embarrass him.

There was no heckling during the main speeches as the audience which jammed the 1,500 theatre seats seemed content to watch the new leader in action.

Four Main Points Featured

Mr. Pearson made four main points:

1. Canada should look closely at Britain's offer of a free-trading area with Canada—an offer summarily brushed aside by the Tories—and should even carry it further to consider a free-trading unit with all NATO countries.

2. The United States cannot expect defence co-ordination or integration with Canada unless it is also prepared for economic and trade co-ordination with Canada at the same time.

3. Pledged that if he is elected he will insist on a proper defence agreement with the United States, covering the joint air defence command agreed to by the Tories without any reference to Parliament.

4. The question of peace is in no sense a partisan issue and should not be treated as such in the election campaign.

Mr. Pearson appeared fresh and relaxed after an arduous day in which he caught an 8 a.m. ferry from Vancouver, made a noon-hour speech in Nanaimo, held two press conferences and made a stopover in Duncan.

He caught the midnight boat after the meeting and arrived in "Edmonton by air today on the second lap of his western campaign tour."

At the Nanaimo meeting, attended by close to 300 persons, the Liberal leader said the time is now "ripe" to start developing a free-trade area within NATO.

He expressed fear the alliance may break up if trade barriers are not withdrawn and the member countries show more economic co-operation.

At Victoria, Mr. Pearson told his attentive audience that NATO free-trade suggestion might be considered "visionary," but said now is the time for bold thinking.

'Deplorable Choice' Possible

He referred to the growing free-trade movement in Europe and said Canada by not acting now might be faced with a "deplorable choice" between European or U.S. trade.

"No country has more at stake in this particular development than Canada," he said.

Canada depends on foreign trade for its prosperity more than any other country in the world, Mr. Pearson said, and no part of Canada is more vitally concerned than B.C.

The objective in correcting a long-time unbalance of trade with the U.S. should be to expand exports, not curtail imports.

Traditional Liberal policy has been to expand trade, Mr. Pearson said, criticizing the Conservative proposal to divert 15 per cent of Canada's trade with the U.S. to the United Kingdom.

The Liberal leader said attempts of some groups in the U.S. to restrict Canadian imports through heavy tariffs have been "unfair and unwarranted."

"When in office we did our best to keep in check these protectionist tendencies... but we didn't have all the success we hoped for."

Faced with the same situation, the Conservatives had sent a special mission to Washington "with no more success than we had."

At the same time, Mr. Pearson warned that "nothing could hurt us more than a trade war with our neighbor."

Trade with Britain poses different problems than trade with the U.S., he said.

The Conservatives were given an opportunity to improve the situation last summer "by one of the most striking and imaginative trade offers ever received by Canada."

But nothing had been heard from the government since that time on the free-trade proposal. "The Canadian government should have reacted immediately," Mr. Pearson said, "by promising a full study of the offer."

Mr. Pearson said the previous Liberal government did all it could to promote expanded trade within the Commonwealth.

"There were more meetings

Bill Proposes
Relaxation of Store Rules

Legislation under which the Victoria Council will have powers to allow six-day shopping and to allow stores to stay open in the evenings was introduced in the Legislature Tuesday by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black.

Governing store hours, the bill will return to the municipalities a much larger measure of control over store hours, with classification for stores which may remain open longer and various other relaxations.

The store closing law has been a bone of contention for the last two years.

Another major alteration will remove service stations and garages from the general shops regulations and put them under a code of their own.

'BOWS' PERSONAL WITH MIKE

The world's best-known bow tie wearer, Lester B. Pearson, stayed loyal to his symbol during his Victoria visit. But he laughingly denied at a news conference that the bow tie was being "used" as part of his campaign strategy. The large number of red bows worn at his Vancouver meeting "was just a spontaneous affection for the bow tie," he declared.

Double Shooting
At Prince George

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)

A young insurance adjuster was shot in the stomach in his downtown office today. A second man was found wounded on the street about eight blocks away.

Police said the woundings were linked but they would not release further details immediately.

Both men were reported alive in hospital, but the condition of the second was described as critical.

RCMP identified the men as R. Lorne McCuish, about 30, a Prince George insurance adjuster, and Herbert L. Clark, about 45, also of Prince George.

Police said McCuish was apparently shot first in the downtown office of McCuish and Barton insurance. Clark was apparently shot five minutes later. He was in critical condition at hospital with a head wound.

McCuish was shot by a man carrying a rifle who walked through his outer office and into McCuish's private office. He was sitting at his desk when the shot was fired.

Glenn Barton, partner in the firm, was in the outer office when the shooting occurred.

He said he did not see anything, but heard McCuish scream: "God, oh, my God."

Police said two weapons were used in the separate shootings.

Tax Cut
Possible

WASHINGTON (AP)

President Eisenhower said today a tax cut is a possibility if, as he put it, there is a deepening of the business depression.

Eisenhower said a tax reduction would not necessarily be his administration's last resort in dealing with economic conditions.

He said a great deal of money is going to be spent on public works, flood control, defence and other domestic budget items.

Sommers Hearing Continues

VANCOUVER (CP)—A former C. D. Schultz Company accountant testified today that there were numerous "alterations or omissions" in one record book of the company put to him for identification in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy preliminary hearing.

George H. Davenport replied in the affirmative eight times when asked if he saw any alterations or omissions on certain pages of a Schultz Company record book concerning payment of monies to the Schultz by the Tahsis lumber firm.

The entries concerned payments of $2,000 a month made to the Schultz company as a retainer fee by Tahsis.

This is the document, part of the Crown's evidence in the case involving former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers and others, which prosecutor Stewart McMoran Tuesday said apparently had been tampered with. At McMoran's request, the ledger was put through a scientific process in an attempt to "raise" figures he said had been erased with ink eradicator.

Later the witness, identifying a document headed "Total, CDS, HWG and others," said he couldn't positively identify it, but he had made up one like it for Mr. Schultz.

He said that Schultz told him that "others" on the document, which was dated Oct. 25, 1954, "was Robert Sommers, the then minister of lands and forests."

Davenport, who was the Schultz Company accountant between March, 1953, and 1955, now is secretary-treasurer of Bralorne Mines.

IDENTITIES NOTE

Generally he was not asked to explain the import of many ledgers, cheques and vouchers which form evidence in the Crown's case. But in one instance, he identified a note sent to him by Mr. Schultz as instructions to send $500 to W. D. Samson through the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Dawson Creek, B.C., in 1954.

In another instance, identifying a 1954 cheque for $10,000 sent by the Schultz Company to Pacific Coast Services, Davenport testified he had been instructed by Mr. Schultz to dispatch it.

He said Schultz had a 22-month contract for payment by the Tahsis Company of retainer fees of $2,000 a month in connection with engineering and other work.

He then was asked to identify successive entries of this $2,000 monthly payment and say whether he could see any alterations or omissions in them.

He replied that he could or "there are," but was not asked to explain what had been obliterated or altered.

LONDON (Reuters)—Defence Minister Duncan Sandys said today the West at present has "no alternative" but to use nuclear weapons against any major Soviet aggression with conventional arms.

"It is the accepted and well-established strategy of NATO and it is by this method that peace has been preserved during the last decade," Sandys said.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

One night last week, after a whole afternoon and evening of listening to speeches, I became slightly delirious and pictured the B.C. government as an orchestra under the masterful baton of maestro Premier Bennett.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston went one better Tuesday by likening the Social Credit administration to a gallant ship battling its way through a squall, hatches battened down, engines running at full power while Captain Premier Bennett strode the bridge, determined to keep his vessel on course.

In our mind's eye the cabinet suddenly sprouted peaked sailor caps and, above the shriek of the wind, we seemed to hear First Officer Philip Gagliardi booming instructions to the deck crew while Captain Bennett hurried to his cabin and scribbled a terse memo to Chief Engineer Robert Bonner.

"Get up a good head of steam—I am expecting dirty weather."

However, Mr. Williston's simile (as he called it) did not quite reach that stage of whimsy. He likened the B.C. ship of state to an "economic tug."

"This ship has a captain," Mr. Williston said, "and he is on course. He may be facing a bit of a squall just now but he has no intention of altering his course and he knows where he is going."

Here there was a lamentable interruption from the land-lubbers on the Opposition side of the house.

"We know where he is going—straight down," said CCF leader Robert Strachan. Ignoring this siren voice from the rocks, Mr. Williston continued:

"No tugs will be abandoned. A couple of anchors, ensnared in debt, will be cut adrift and a few fresh towlines will be put aboard.

"The engines will be maintained to provide full power. The hatches may be battened down and the captain may be in his cabin where you cannot see his ready smile. But he is still there and working harder than ever.

"It is true the paint may be slightly chipped and the meals and service a little less refined. But essentially we are sailing a good sound ship, on course and with plenty in reserve.

"The Opposition would have the faint-hearted run for the lifeboats, since their cloudy promiscuousness offer little navigational assistance to those charged with responsibility.

Social Credit Names Bell In Esquimalt

Esquimalt-Saanich Social Credit federal nominating meeting Tuesday unanimously named Noel Bell as candidate for the March 31 election.

About 100 persons attended the meeting in Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall.

Three other persons, Carey W. Smalley, Mrs. C. Hyndman and Derek Pethik, also were nominated but declined in favor of Mr. Bell.

Mr. Bell, a salesman, was defeated in the last election, polling 2,724 votes compared to 11,765 for Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, now minister of national defence.

He said he expects to obtain the necessary Soviet clearance after reaching England so that he can attend a screening of one of his films in Moscow March 4. The showing has been arranged as a cultural exchange program.

FATHER, 78, LAW STUDENT

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A 78-year-old father of five children has enrolled in the University of Bridgeport for a law degree. Maurice Friedman has registered in the university's evening division and expects to enroll as a full-time student in September. "At my age it's hard to get a job anywhere," he said.

Labor Council Seeks Bonner Resignation

Demand for immediate resignation of Attorney-General Robert Bonner for his handling of the Sommers case will be sent to Premier Bennett by Victoria Labor Council.

Copies of the resolution also will be sent to Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and the B.C. Federation of Labor. They were being prepared today.

The resolution was authorized by a special meeting of the V.L.C. executive Monday. It is a reworded version of a resolution passed last week by the council that was withdrawn by the executive.

It demands resignation of the attorney-general because he "did, contrary to his duties of office, in our opinion, ignore for nearly two years evidence submitted to him on the Sommers case."

345 Protest 'Outside' Vote On Big Project

CAMPBELL RIVER — A protest against "outsiders" being allowed to vote Monday in a plebiscite on the proposed $2,000,000 waterfront development here has been signed by 345 village residents and forwarded to Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston.

Ratepayers within an area six miles north and south of the village, and on Quadra Island, will be allowed to vote.

The plebiscite was ordered by the government to ascertain public opinion on the issue, which has been the subject of heated controversy in the area.

John D. Hints Speedy Social Security Action

HULL, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, speaking optimistically of Progressive Conservative election chances March 31, has hinted at speedy action to broaden Canada's social security system.

"I believe it will not be very long before we will be in a position to introduce in the new Parliament a contributory social security system," he said here Tuesday night.

He said, too, he has found everywhere "a groundswell of feeling" that his Conservative government should be returned with a majority mandate because it has carried out its promises and deserves a chance to implement its larger program of national development.

Mr. Diefenbaker flew today to Rimouski for his third campaign in Quebec prior to a three-day swing east to Charlottetown, Sydney, N.S., and Saint John, N.B.

The prime minister hinted at a possible extension of the period in which supplementary winter unemployment insurance benefits are paid.

He also indicated prompt action on holding an "informal" meeting between the federal government and municipal representatives—he said it would occur after the election—to hear municipal views on their financial problems.

EDMONTON (CP) — Solon Low, national Social Credit party leader, says the only difference between the "two old parties" is that "one is in and the other is out trying to get in."

Mr. Low also said Tuesday night in an address over a national television network that the March 31 federal general election is unnecessary, irresponsible and extravagant.

Mr. Low accused both the former Liberal and Progressive Conservative governments of burying an analysis of Canada's economic situation in March, 1957, prepared by M. W. Sharp of the federal trade department and containing "many warnings of the serious downturn in economic activity."

REGINA (CP) — CCF leader Coldwell said Tuesday night that the royal commission on energy resources is designed to "smother" demands that the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline be publicly owned.

Speaking on a live television broadcast, Mr. Coldwell said the commission will remove from the government responsibilities it assumed while in opposition.

Famed Author Fourth Husband For Paulette

BRANFORD, Conn. (AP) — Actress Paulette Goddard and novelist Erich Maria Remarque were married Tuesday in a quiet civil ceremony.

"I'm very happy," said the 42-year-old actress after she was married for the fourth time. It was the second marriage for Remarque, 59.

Naturalist Shows Movies Here Saturday

A naturalist, who was hired by Walt Disney to film penguins in the Falkland Islands in color for a nature movie to be released later this year, will visit Victoria this weekend.

Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill, Jr., of Wayne, Maine, will show movies at the Oak Bay Junior High School on Saturday at 8 p.m.

The lecture-meeting is sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society.

A graduate from Bowdoin College, Dr. Pettingill received his PhD degree in ornithology from Cornell University.

For two years he was engaged in the whooping crane research project ranging from Texas to northern Canada. He was also co-leader of a Cornell University-Carleton College ornithological expedition in Mexico.

RINK NEEDED

By AB KENT

Victoria claims one of Canada's largest figure skating clubs, yet its members haven't a patch of ice to call their own. For 10 years Victoria Figure Skating Club has borrowed ice surface facilities from Memorial Arena, Victoria Curling Club and—for its summer classes—rinks in the B.C. interior.

The club boasts 800 members and produces some of Canada's most promising skating talent.

Promise, however, is about all they have the chance to show.

According to Lee Rutley, an enthusiastic parent of one such skater, unavailability of skating surface makes it hard for the good young skaters to reach their prime.

At the threshold of that time is 16-year-old Maralee Rutley, who with Doug Doidge, 20, skated off with second place out of 10 in silver dance couples of Western Canada Figure Skating Championships in Vancouver Feb. 13-15.

They placed third out of nine pairs in the waltz competition.

A pair of youngsters, also from Victoria Figure Skating Club—Len Simpson, 11, and Lorraine Hind, 12—took second spot in the bronze medal dance.

Judges were surprised at the progress shown at the various levels of competition since 1957.

ABILITY HERE

"If kids can go over to Vancouver and place like that, it shows the ability is here," said Rutley.

"All this club is interested in is getting a sheet of ice. . . . Once we get a rink we're home free."

Minimum cost of providing a building and year-round ice-making facilities has been estimated at $100,000.

Still, this figure is considerably less than the $500,000 in shares now on the market for a new skating club in Vancouver, where success of the Capilano Club has been proven, Rutley points out.

The local club lacks only senior skaters, who must take advantage of inconvenient ice times in order to get in daily practice. Few find themselves able, for example, to get their minimum three hours a day practice over the dinner hour.

If it were not for things like that "We could have 1,000 members, easily," Rutley forecasts.

He sees the eventual development of family-type clubs, like an expanded Capilano Club, which will be attractive to all members of a family.

As in the United States, where it is now a trend to build father's golf club with swimming, tennis, bowling and other features to make it a place for the whole family.

Ship Blaze Curbed

YOKOHAMA, Japan (UP)—Fire broke out in a hold of the American freighter Golden Bear, carrying a cargo of ammunition and grain, but was quickly brought "under control," the ship's agents reported.

Patronage Still Exists, Says MLA

Irvine Corbett, Social Credit member for Yale, suggested in the legislature Tuesday that the main reason the electors voted out the Liberals in 1952 was because of "political patronage."

"However," he went on, "I do not think we have gotten away from some of the political patronage that was prevalent at that time."

"I have observed in various places throughout the province that, if you happen to be a Social Credit, it makes it very difficult to get a job. But if you are a Liberal the job seems to come somewhat easier."

"I think it is about time this was stopped."

Speaking in the budget debate, Mr. Corbett said a member of the CCF opposition had suggested cuts in the civil service were intended to make government employees "too the mark."

"I gathered the member considered it not a good idea to have the civil servants toe the mark. Personally, I feel it is long past time that some of the civil servants were made to toe the line."

"I am not suggesting for one minute that all civil servants are not doing their duty. But I have observed some government employees just putting in the time rather than making use of it."

"Generally speaking, we can be proud of our civil servants and, when we find those who are not doing their job, they should be fired forthwith."

Mr. Corbett said he gathered the CCF were down on any industry that made a profit.

"They forget it is only when our industries are profitable that we have prosperous times and that the laboring force is kept employed."

Voted the best British film of 1957, starring Dirk Bogarde, Muriel Pavlow, Donald Sinden, James Robertson, and others. Another large dose of laughter. All the "bare" facts and figures. The love's outrageous, the laughter's contagious. This is just what the doctor ordered for the whole family. Also an excellent feature.
